Couzens Is Having Hard Battle
In Michigan; Dry Wins In Vermont

(International News Service)

Apparent defeat of Cole L. Blease, dominant figure in South Carolina politics, was the outstanding result today of primaries held in eight states yesterday. Early returns in the run-off primary for the senatorial nomination indicated that Blease had met defeat at the hands of former Congressman James F. Byrnes, pro-Smith man in 1928.

In Louisiana Gov. Huey P. Long appeared certain of victory in the race for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate, International News Service dispatches showed. He had a comfortable lead over Senator Joseph E. Ransdell.

George H. Shaw was leading William V. Hodges for the Republican senatorial nomination in Colorado. Edward P. Costigan was considered safely in as the Democratic nominee.

Couzens Has Hard Battle

In Michigan Senator Couzens was encountering a surprisingly strong race but was believed a victor for the senate nomination over former Governor Osborn.

Governor Weeks won the Republican nomination over old Jack.

PA NEW OBSERVES

An intricate tile pattern on the entrance to a new store on Washington street attracted scores, who appeared interested while laborers carefully matched small pieces of tile to position.

Local guardsmen are thankful to L. B. Round, who appears to be their benefactor in many things. Now he has been instrumental in getting the city to furnish the troop used bricks for use on a new floor at the stables on the West Side.

Reports this morning from the Harbor district were to the effect that a frost had been felt in that district last night. At Welker's place there were plants knocked over by old Jack.

East North street is receiving a lot of attention these days; in addition to the steam shovel and the workers on the street, there is always an audience supervising the work.

Annual flower show of the Garden club is in progress at the Carnegie auditorium today and tomorrow. Despite the drought conditions of the summer, there are hundreds of beautiful blooms on exhibition at the show, flowers appearing to be even more beautiful than ever before, if such a condition is possible.

Looks like some real action on the repaving of North street between East street and Neshannock avenue, today. The steam shovel is belching forth smoke and is in action. Paving of this strip of street between East street and Neshannock avenue will certainly be a long needed improvement.

Minimum temperature 39.

Big Birthday Cake Presented To News

Knowing that the New Castle News was about to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the establishment of the newspaper in this city Miss Dorothy K. Harris, home economist, who is at the W. P. Dufford furniture store this week, representing the A. J. Stove company of Battle Creek, Mich., took the morning off from her duties, and in the kitchen equipped in the Dufford store, went to work with a zest and plenty of material and made a three tiered Angel Food cake, frosted it with yellow icing and placed around the different layers 50 small golden candles, one for each year of the paper's existence. The cake, a beauty, was presented to The News at noon today.

Of course the proof of the cake will be in the cutting, which will be done on the golden anniversary, Thursday.

Numerous messages of congratulation are being received by The News on the anniversary.

THOUSANDS OF BLOOMS AT GARDEN CLUB SHOW

They said the drought had killed the flowers, and they said that nobody would have anything to show. They also said the Garden club couldn't expect to have its usual success this year but "they," meaning Mrs. Grundy and her friends reckoned without the Garden club. And apparently impervious to the slings and arrows of outraged opinion the members went steadily on preparing for the show, and today the tenth annual flower show opened in the Carnegie auditorium.

And what a show! One look at the interior of the auditorium today makes you wonder what happened to the drought. Perhaps the blooms are not quite as lush as they might have been, perhaps here and there the coloring is not quite as alive as it would have been, but over and above all that is the show itself, beautiful, impressive, entrancing.

Somehow the autumn flowers have a beauty denied those of the spring and summer. It may be that nature is having her last fling of the year and throws in all the remnants of pigment she has left, it may be that the beneficent old lady wants to leave a memory of color before she leaves.

Cashier Phil Cox Of Volant
Says Men Held Are Not Robbers

Aside from the fact that it wasn't the men, or the gun, or the black bag, the identification of two men held in Elyria, O., where they were the robbers of the Volant bank might have been a success. However, they didn't correspond in any particular and the stickup men who relieved Cashier Phil Cox of about $1000.00 two weeks ago are still at large.

Mr. Cox has just returned from Elyria, O., where he went to look at two alleged bandits there. He found they did not correspond to the men who held up the bank, that the black bag they carried was not the bank's bag, and that the gun they had was not the bank's gun.

Hence the identification was short of success and the bandits wanted are still somewhere in the states.

SANTO DOMINGO, Sept. 10.—British bluejackets from H. M. S. Danae stood guard over the food depots of this stormwrecked city today, while an army of workers labored incessantly to expedite relief work.

Following the request by President Trujillo that the United States government grant the services of 100 marines to aid in keeping order, it was believed that all danger of further food riots which have added to the general misery in the past few days would cease with additional preventive forces.

Dominican engineers who have been in charge of untangling the twisted mass of debris piled up by last Wednesday's hurricane gave out an official estimate of lives lost and the property damage exacted.

The dead, it was estimated in their official report, reached the staggering total of 3,500 so far, with hundreds of bodies still under the ruins.

By C. S. DE ANDRADE
International News Service Staff

BOMBAY, Sept. 10.—A flood of major proportions, the worst in the past 100 years, inundated Bombay today after a terrific downpour which lasted 36 hours.

The city, submerged in 21 inches of muddy water that poured like a Biblical flood out of murky ceilings, was practically paralyzed and isolated from the rest of India. Traffic splashed through the flooded streets in some sections, but for the greater part all vehicular activity was at a standstill.

Panic Sweeps City

Panic swept the dense native quarters as the deluge swamped away the weaker shelters, carrying flimsy household materials away in the path of the swift flood current. Mud houses crumbled like melting wax, with natives floundering in confusion through the streaming rain in blind dashes for shelter.

Three persons were injured in the heart of the city when a hillside collapsed, sliding tons of mud before it. Emergency details of police were rushed to all sections of the city to cope with the situation.

Food Shortage

The menace of a food shortage immediately threatened the poorly stocked city, causing authorities to send out urgent calls for relief. The entire city was placed on short rations to conserve food in the hope of averting a famine.

Vegetables, milk and meat supplies were badly lacking, as well as drinking water. The city wells were believed contaminated.

General council elections scheduled for today were postponed until September 18 because of the inability of voters to reach the polls. No fatalities have been reported as yet.

Relief agencies in neighboring centers have been urged to speed all efforts in reaching Bombay with food supplies and other necessities.

Dying Professor Stipulates Sweetheart Must Find And Marry Brother To Inherit Estate

By Central Press
ELDORADO, Ill., Sept. 10.—Many stories have been written with love of brother for brother as the central theme.

Miss Frances Weaver, formerly of this city but who now lives in East St. Louis, is one of the central figures in such a drama.

Miss Weaver is the "dearest possession" bequeathed to a lost brother of a man who has died. And strangely enough, Miss Weaver is the beneficiary in the will, that, in the last analysis, was written for the brother.

Last December 22, in Chicago, Professor Daniel P. Brooks, of the biology department of North Park college, died. He and Miss Weaver, not many weeks before, had pledged undying love. So, when death interrupted him at his studies, it was she, as closest to him, who attended to the details of the funeral and burial.

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—A new immigration policy was in the making today as an aftermath of President Hoover's request to the state department to deny admission to all immigrants liable to become objects of charity.

The new restrictive order, it was explained at the White House, is designed to cut down the influx of labor from Europe during the present period of wide unemployment in this country.

The order, it was added, has already been invoked with respect to Canada and Mexico. Both of these countries are exempt from quota law provisions and it is believed it may result in a reduction of immigration from Europe.

Complete Revision.
In taking this step, however, it is understood President Hoover is moving steadily toward a revision of the restrictive immigration system by the adoption of a selective policy.

While Mr. Hoover recommended the selective system—under which immigrants who are not needed in various professions and trades could be barred even though their country's quota was not exhausted—he did not push it in the last congress.

The state department announcement also disclosed that Mr. Hoover himself suggested a resolution introduced in the closing session of the

Bankers See Improved Farm-

Lawrence County

With an optimistic air prevailing everywhere they went, despite this summer's extensive drought, Lawrence county's 35 bankers returned home last night from their second annual tour of county farms, satisfied to know that agriculture locally has not suffered dangerously.

While the crops undoubtedly will show the drought marks, in some cases more than others, observations made convinced all that farmers are not worried. Instead they are busy making preparations to harvest slightly below normal crops.

Visit Six Farms

Six different farms were on the itinerary of the bankers' party, and at each farm the same optimistic spirit was in evidence. At each it was apparent that dry weather and the frosts of early summer had damaged the late yields somewhat, but it seems to be no reason for discouragement among the farmers.

Accompanying the group of bankers, all traveling in private motor cars, was County Farm Agent H. R. McCullough and a number of special guests. The motor caravan left the city at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, returning here around 9 at night.

Heading the committee of bankers in charge of arrangements was C. P.

Graf Zeppelin On Flight To Moscow Is Warmly Greeted

(International News Service)
MOSCOW, Sept. 10.—The German air monarch Graf Zeppelin, paying Soviet Russia a long-promised visit, arrived here shortly before noon today and was moored to a specially constructed mast erected on the Municipal airport.

Arrival, impatiently awaited by the specially invited throng since early morning.

Soviet government officials and members of the German embassy welcomed Commander Hugo Eckener and the twenty passengers who made the trip from Friedrichshafen. The city was in holiday dress.

The Graf, sighted in a cloudy sky outside of Moscow a few hours before it pointed its nose toward the mooring mast, was escorted to the field by a squadron of Soviet army planes. The airfield formerly was used by czarist troops as a parade ground.

Start Probe Of Engine Tragedy In Philadelphia

Three Separate Investigations Under Way Into Fatal Blast Of Engine
SIX KILLED AND TEN ARE INJURED

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—Three investigations by city, federal and railroad officials, got underway today into the disastrous engine blast at the Erie avenue roundhouse of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad here yesterday which took a toll of six lives and caused the injury of ten others.

The boiler of one of the huge locomotives used to push long strings of freight cars over the steep grades between Nesheim and Ewing, Pa., on the New York division of the railroad, exploded while workmen were attempting to repair it. All the workmen on the engine and those within a radius of 100 feet or more were either killed or hurt by bits of flying debris and scalding steam. Five died instantly and James Gordon, one of those most seriously hurt, died during the night.

A probe was immediately ordered by L. B. Schofield, Philadelphia's public safety director, while the Reading company's superintendent of locomotive power at Reading was called in by the firm to investigate the cause of the tragedy. Later the Interstate Commerce commission at Washington recalled an inspector in the local office of the Federal Bureau of Locomotive Inspection and ordered him to conduct a probe.

Hayes, 1946 Layton street, for a short time, returning home about October 1.

The town of Weesocke did not have the very best fire protection in the state. Indeed, such a fire department as it had was voluntary, and was rather negative in type; that is, its chief function consisted of warning the townsmen that there was a fire and doing what it could to prevent it from spreading.

It so happened that a fire was raging in the block in which the Bifkins had their home. Every resident of that block immediately began to move his or her effects and belongings from their buildings, fearing the spread of the fire, and so did the Bifkins. A strong wind was blowing at the time and was heading in the direction of the Bifkins home.

While Bifkins and his household were thus engaged in moving out their effects, the fire chief ran up to them and told them that it would be necessary to destroy their house in order to save the block, and despite Mr. Bifkins' violent protest, he ordered his volunteers to dynamite the building.

Eventually the fire was over, but not Mr. Bifkins' anger. Some days later he sought his lawyer and filed suit against the fire chief for the destruction of his property.

In the will it was stipulated that Miss Weaver was to inherit the entire estate on one condition: That she locate and marry the brother of the dead man.

Continuing, the will said in part: "Should marriage between my brother and my fiancée not be consummated, my entire estate, consisting of property in Illinois, monies in banks and personal belongings will revert to Cook county, Illinois, to be used for the good of the commonwealth."

The estate includes a palatial home on the Lake Shore Drive in Chicago and other real estate.

Starts Search
Miss Weaver, actuated not so much by a desire for the estate as by her wish to carry out the wishes of her dead lover, has started a search for the brother named in the will.

Who is he, or where, she does not know. Nor does she know his first name. Having heard her fiancée speak of him, she knows that he probably is a veterinarian and probably lives on a farm in northern Illinois.

Whether he is known as Brooks she does not know. The brothers came to the United States from Austria and are believed to have changed their names when becoming citizens.

Meanwhile Miss Weaver has appealed to the authorities in Chicago and state authorities, asking their aid in solving the mystery.

Her lover is dead. Is it possible that in his brother she may find his counterpart?

She wants to meet him first. Then she will know.

Officers say the physician has been furnishing them information about other violators in the township.

THE MOON A POOR REFLECTOR
By Arthur DeV. Carpenter
ONLY ABOUT 7 per cent of the sunlight falling upon the moon is reflected from its surface. The percentage of the total amount of reflected sunlight of a planet or satellite is known as its albedo. Thus the moon has very low reflecting many shadows which detract from the volume of reflection; then, too, unevenness deflects radiation in other directions than that of the line of sight. Were the moon's surface irregularities smoothed out, its albedo would be increased by about 10 per cent. But most of the sun's radiation falling on the moon is absorbed or is used up in heating its surface.

storm was counted in the vicinity of $25,000,000.

With the arrival of several more ships as well as airplanes of various nations bearing cargoes of food and medical supplies, great progress became apparent in the handling of relief work and medical cases. Thousands of sufferers were systematically fed under supervision of the Red Cross.

The Cuban hospital unit already has treated more than 700 of the injured and Cuban doctors alone have performed more than 100 major operations. The problem of disposing quickly of the dead continued to occupy official minds as transportation facilities remained in a jumble.

First feeble reconstruction attempts were launched when Ernest J. Swift, director of the relief expedition for the American Red Cross, began surveying the ruins and mapping out a rebuilding program.

National guardsmen succeeded in clearing some parts of the debris-clogged streets, and for the first time since the calamity a few electric street lights again shone in the darkness. last congress by Rep. Johnson (R) of Washington, cutting immigration 50 per cent for one year.

Tighten Up
Every country which has an immigration restriction system has tightened up during the last several months, it was said.

When application of the quota system to Canada and Mexico was being strongly agitated the state department began tightening up on issuance of visa. Strict application to the eligibility test cut Mexican immigration and the public charge section also was involved.

As a result, the number of immigrants from Mexico during the first six months of 1930, was 4,114, compared with 15,134 in first six months of 1929. Canadian immigration dropped from 29,447 in the first six months of last year to 23,818 in the first six months of this year.

The state department's statistics on the quota system show that 150,874 immigrants were admitted on quota in the year ending June 30 as compared to a total quota of 153,714. Great Britain and northern Ireland was the only important nation not to fill its quota, there being a surplus of 509 immigrants for these nations.

The immigration flow from Europe is undiminished despite unemployment in this country, according to the immigration bureau.

Fund being raised for the purpose of purchasing a wheeled chair for Clarence Ferec, in order that he may be better able to continue in his effort to earn a living by selling papers, is growing but the return is a little slow.

It will take $200 to purchase the chair needed. The old one is about worn out and Ferec a helpless cripple is doubly handicapped in being compelled to use it, in his effort to make a living.

Dut to several generous gifts made since the report Tuesday, the fund now totals $82. It is hoped that those who are able will make their donations to the fund without delay, in order that the chair needed may be secured and Ferec given a real opportunity to make his living.

Jacob F. Rantz at The News, will be glad to receive the dollars of all those interested in helping a really worthy cause.

The wheel chair fund now stands as follows:

Shaw Colorado Winner

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 10.—Returns from more than 400 precincts today gave George H. Shaw, former chairman of the Colorado Republican committee, a lead of more than 4,000 votes over his opponent, William V. Hodges, in the primary contest of the two men for the Republican senatorial designation.

Shaw early today had 20,453 votes while Hodges had 16,400. Shaw was maintaining a good lead in Denver and his nomination seemed assured.

Victory of Edward P. Costigan, former member of the federal interstate commerce commission, in the Democratic senatorial primary was virtually conceded by his two opponents, Morrison Shafroth and James A. Marsh.

Governor Long Wins
NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 10.—Gov. Huey P. Long appeared certain today of victory in the Democratic primary election for United States Senator when returns showed he had a majority of nearly 20,000 votes over his opponent, Senator Joseph E. Ransdell.

The vote from 1,300 precincts out of 1,178 at midnight gave Governor Long a total of 107,000 votes against the Veteran Senator Ransdell's 83,200 votes. Long apparently had carried the sugar and rice parishes of Louisiana.

Throughout yesterday an armed guard of militia watched over the governor.

Blaise is Defeated

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 10.—Retirement of the veteran Senator Cole Blaise, dominant figure in South Carolina's politics, appeared almost certain today as results of yesterday's run-off primary for the Republican party's senatorial nomination were being completed.

His opponent, former Congressman James F. Byrnes, held a plurality of 6,000 votes over Senator Blaise after all but 50 of 1,420 precincts had been accounted for.

Ibra C. Blackwood, solicitor of Spartanburg, held a meager lead in the governor's contest over Olin D. Johnston at midnight when incomplete returns showed Blackwood had polled 116,600 votes as against 116,016 for Johnston. Johnston openly opposed the $85,000,000 road construction program.

Hunt Leads Lyman

PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 10.—Former Governor George Hunt today held a narrow edge of some 900 votes over Frank Lyman, his nearest competitor in the four cornered race for the Democratic party's gubernatorial nomination, incomplete returns showed.

Governor Phillips, the Republican nominee for the governorship.

Sixty-five precincts of the state's 302 showed Hunt had 2,935 votes and Lyman 2,000.

Close In Washington
SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 10.—John F. Miller, veteran Republican congressman and supporter of President Hoover's policies, was emerging from the closest race of his fourteen-year congressional career today with Ralph A. Horr, candidate for the Republican nomination, leading according to incomplete returns.

Two hundred and forty precincts in the first congressional district out of 430 at midnight gave Miller 15,360 votes and Ralph A. Horr 16,082.

Horr in his campaign favored modification or repeal of prohibition. The City of Seattle and counties of King and Kitsap, comprising the district have hitherto piled up overwhelming majorities for dry candidates, but Horr took the lead almost from the first.

Winant Has Lead

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 10.—John G. Winant, former governor, had a slight lead early today over his chief opponent, Arthur P. Morrill, in the battle for the New Hampshire Republican nomination for governor.

The returns gave Winant, 14,450 and Morrill 13,395. Dr. Hugh K. Moore was running a poor third.

Frederick E. Small was leading Albert W. Noone for the Democratic nomination for governor. Noone, also running for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senatorship, was behind James N. Blandin, early tabulations showed.

United States Senator Henry W. Keyes, Republican, was unopposed, as were the two Republican congressmen, Fletcher Hale and Edward H. Wason.

Crime Never Pays

READY TO HELP

ONCE more the United States succors suffering humanity. The United States government and the American Red Cross were the first on the scene in hurricane-wrecked Santo Domingo, living up to tradition with prompt and practical response to the first calls for assistance.

But as the magnitude of the disaster becomes apparent it is evident that the continuing measures of relief, in addition to those that have been applied to meet the immediate emergency, will have to be much more extensive than had at first been thought necessary.

Thousands of persons are homeless and hungry. Thousands are in need of medical care. The hurricane was a calamity of major proportions and must be treated as such.

The first task of the army of relief workers was to provide food and shelter and first aid to the storm victims. Now comes the great work of reconstruction and rehabilitation.

Realizing their special responsibility, the American people will want to have their full share in this work of restoration. They will wait the opportunity to help and there can be no doubt that whatever is required will be quickly forthcoming. When the call comes, the $50,000 already given by the Red Cross will be but a drop in the stream of financial assistance which will flow from the United States to Santo Domingo.

ABBREVIATED GOLF

If there is one thing the American people as a whole do better than anything else, it is taking to themselves with fervor and devotion new fads and pastimes. There is apparently a national cordiality in this land toward any new game or diversion which enables every novelty in entertainment to sweep from one end of the United States to the other in a remarkably short time.

Baseball, football, tennis, golf, mah jong, swimming, quoits and now abbreviated golf are a few of the examples. The spread of the midget golf vogue has been phenomenal.

When the typical American works he works hard and fast. At his occupation he accomplishes more in an eight-hour working day than workers in other countries accomplish in much longer time. This imposes upon him a nervous and physical strain that must find relief. For that relief the worker resorts to recreation.

Medical men doubt if the nation could long stand the terrific pace it is traveling if it were not for these daily diversions, these after-working-hours vacations. They rebuild him speedily in mind, body and nervous system. How they do it is obvious.

So it appears that the miltum in parve golf game has a useful purpose other than keeping down the weeds in vacant lots.

TALKIES FOR LANGUAGE STUDY

American movie producers seem to have solved the problem of holding the export market for American films despite the fact that the American films speak English. One of the largest of the American producing companies now sends its films to Paris, where the sets are duplicated. The films are reproduced, scene by scene, ten times by actors recruited in ten different countries of Europe. The cost of all ten translations is said to be only slightly higher than the cost of the original production in English.

The method is a testimonial to the resourcefulness and energy of American business in overcoming obstacles. It is to be hoped that American pedagogy will be as alert to the opportunity presented by foreign language talkies for foreign language instruction. Today the teaching of foreign tongues in this country comes close to being a total loss. After three or four years of instruction in French, German or Spanish only the unusual pupils are able even to read the foreign language with anything approaching fluency. It is probably well within the truth to say that not one in a hundred has anything approaching mastery of the spoken tongue.

The failure would be startling if it were not so common as to be regarded as normal. There are a number of reasons for it. One of them unquestionably is the lack of facility on the part of great numbers of our teachers in reading and especially in speaking the language they are teaching. They can correct exercises, perhaps, but to them the subject they are teaching is rather a discipline for the mind than a tool whose value resides in its use. It is a good deal as if carpenters' apprentices were taught to weigh, measure and describe the hammer as if that were an end in itself. The carpenter's apprentice who has not learned to drive and draw a nail, any one will admit, has been badly instructed; and the same judgment must be passed with respect to the high school or college boy who has spent three years studying French and still can't read it or speak it. The teacher who protests that the boy's mind has been benefited by the three years of discipline even if he hasn't learned to use the language studied is only making a poor excuse for failure.

Admittedly it is next to impossible to import foreign speaking teachers in the numbers required. The lack of them may now be compensated for, in some part, at least, by foreign speaking movies. Almost any one who has lived abroad will testify to the value of theater-going in learning to understand foreign speech, which is the natural first step in learning to use any language.

The ordinary talkie in a foreign language could be shown in our classrooms together with the English version if that were desirable. It should also be possible to produce the foreign language plays which our students now read in class as an adjunct to the reading. We do not suggest that subjecting the language students to talking movies of itself will give him mastery of the language he is trying to learn, but we believe it might prove of great aid. The desire to know what the actors say might even stimulate classroom interest in verb forms and genders. The experiment is well worth trying.—The Chicago Tribune.

Life is too short to use it all up impressing other people.

Experience is a great teacher, but the tuition is rather high.

Distance lends enchantment which must be paid back in some way.

The man who acts like he is the whole cheese is usually only a small piece.

Rickenbacker Mentioned.
At The Wailing Wall.
How To Create 8 Billions.
Harnessing The Ocean.

(Copyright, 1930, King Features

IN WELCOMING the French fliers enthusiastically Monday, President Hoover mentioned "Byrd, Rickenbacker and the rest."

It is refreshing to hear Rickenbacker mentioned, proving that men who flew in the war are not entirely forgotten.

Their flying was unlike modern plane flying, as different as the performance of a hawk from that of a carrier pigeon.

WHEN RICKENBACKER went up his plane, or another, had to crash. Time after time he went up, and time after time he brought down the other planes. This he did more often than any other American flier.

He has maintained in the background, amid all the praise of peace flying. The public should not let him stay there.

THE NATIONS with few exceptions stand with their foreheads pressed against the wailing wall of diminished prosperity. Side by side they bemoan the downfall of a great boom, asking each other:

"When do you think things will improve?"

They ought to know that real business is not done by those that gather at the other wailing wall, of great antiquity. It is done by those that remain at home and attend to business.

Mr. CROMIE, of the Vancouver Sun thinks the main trouble is "refusal of European bankers to recognize the necessity of restoring silver as a 1 to 12 world money token with gold." There are in the world 6,000,000,000 ounces of silver, now worth only $2,000,000,000. If bankers would do their duty Mr. Cromie thinks the 6,000,000,000 ounces would be worth $10,000,000,000 and the purchasing power of China, India, Mexico and other countries now on a silver basis would be increased by $8,000,000,000, almost as much as we lent to our dear allies.

THERE IS NO doubt that cutting down by more than 50 per cent the value of money used by more than half the people on earth is one cause of trouble.

End Of Power Forergusons Read In Primary Overthrow

Ross Sterling, Nominated By Texas Democrats For Governor, Is Expected To Create Business Administration For State

Texas, the rest of the South and the country in general all seem impressed by the defeat of Mrs. Miriam Ferguson for the Democratic nomination for the governorship of the Lone Star State. Many predict that there will be no future return to power for the defeated candidate and her husband. The latter is assumed to engage in political activities through his wife's campaigns because of his own inelegibility as a result of impeachment.

The wealth of Ross Sterling, the nominee, was made an issue in the contest, but the HOUSTON CHRONICLE says: "Mr. Sterling is a far better friend of the poor than Jim Ferguson. He has known more poverty and more toil. He lives in no more luxury today than his opponent. He has befriended the outcast and the underprivileged. He has given to every charity movement, to organization serving the boys and girls of the State, to relief of stricken people in all parts of the world. He has given employment, good employment, to thousands, and has never faced 'employe complaint'."

"Jim Ferguson is about the last of a vanishing race," in the opinion of the MEMPHIS COMMERCIAL APPEAL. "Ross Sterling represents the type of public official that is coming more and more to the front. If he succeeds in carrying out his pledges, more men of business will enter politics." The SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS believes that the nomination of Ross Sterling was "demanded for the very protection of the citizens' vital interest." The OKLAHOMA CITY OKLAHOMAN declares that "Texas has done well and Texas will be even more fortunate if she has seen the last of this composite of the demagogic and theatrical known as Fergusonism."

"The people of Texas," thinks the NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PIAYUNE, "evidently had confidence in Mr. Sterling and quite as evidently were tired of the mud throwing and continual strife and turmoil which have constituted the Ferguson political stock in trade. Viewed from this distance, the Sterling victory looms up as a triumph of political decency and sanity." The CHATTANOOGA TIMES holds that "what is more gratifying to the South than all else is the manner in which Texas re-nounced Jim Ferguson's policies."

The fact that Mrs. Ferguson released 6,000 convicts during her term as governor," suggests the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS, "probably counted strongly against her. But it always should be counted to her credit that she scotched the Klan in Texas. Also, Mrs. Ferguson will be remembered as the first woman elected governor of an American State." The CHARLOTTE OBSERVER states that "Mr. Sterling 'got in on a promise of a 'business administration' and to reduce Ma Ferguson's record of parades and pardons."

"Mr. Sterling's strong appeal," states the ATLANTA JOURNAL, "lay evidently in his character, which is a product, or rather a type of the best history, the best thought and achievement of the great Southwest. His enterprising spirit, his delight in deeds as against mere words, his broad sympathies and his wholehearted democracy commend him to his commonwealth. The nomination virtually assures his election to the governorship, and his administration will be watched with cordial interest far and wide." The BALTIMORE SUN comments: "Since women now have the ballot all over the nation, it is agreeable to note that a great State is able to resist the emotional appeal of a woman candidate, whose one idea is to serve a male member of her family who cannot operate politically on his own."

"The dismal errors of the Moody administration" in the judgment of the FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM, "made it possible for Jim Ferguson to come back and take a serious bid for supremacy." It is up to Mr. Sterling to complete the victory over Fergusonism, only partially obtained at the polls, by giving the State an administration which, by its probability, harmony and accomplishment in the cause of good government, will offer no cause for disappointed and disgusted voters to turn to Fergusonism as a protest.

The run-off primary brought out the greatest number of votes ever cast in a Democratic contest in Texas," says the ROANOKE WORLD-NEWS, observing that "Jim Ferguson gives offered to the people of Texas 'two governors for the price of one' and concluding: 'Evidently the people of Texas, by a hundred thousand majority, prefer one governor of the Sterling type to two of the Ferguson type.'" The LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL avers that, considering the result of the first primary "Texans have set a magnificent example of the use of the run-off primary."

"She might have made a picturesque governor," concedes the SCRANTON TIMES, but that paper adds: "Vituperation and abuse marked the campaign of the Fergusons against their opponent, and they have learned that this method is not always successful." The SHREVEPORT JOURNAL finds that "it is the earnest hope of a great majority of Texans that the last has been heard of the Fergusons in politics." The TEXARKANA GAZETTE concludes: "Personalities in politics and prejudices were dealt a severe blow, Ferguson's 'prince and paper's slogan failing to put him in the occult mansion. Prisoners in the penitentiary will stay there until they have paid the penalties assessed against them. Business principles will rule in the handling of state affairs. Fergusonism is stamped out."

"The Lone Star State's verdict was a victory for intelligence," states the BIRMINGHAM NEWS. "Mrs. Ferguson should never have been dragged away from her preserve and jelly making to draw chestnuts out of the fire for her ambitious husband. All is well, however, that ends well. If the Fergusons will but brush up the old motto 'God Bless Our Home' and keep their eyes firmly fixed upon it—recalling of course, that Texas voters did actually vindicate 'Farmer Jim' once upon a time—Texas may come at last to recognize the Ferguson affliction as something done with forever."

THE ANNISTON STAR believes that "Fergusonism" has been definitely thrust out of Texas politics by the Democratic voters, and it is just as well, for, at best, Ferguson control was freakish and was no credit to Texas." The CHARLESTON EVENING POST says that "in politics anything may happen, and in Texas politics it would seem that everything does happen but a second return of the Fergusons to power is probably to be the exception." The LYNCHBURG ADVANCE asserts: "Although the Fergusons still retain a firm grip on a large part of the electorate, the victory of Sterling indicates that their power is beginning to wane." The LEXINGTON LEADER concludes: "The Fergusons may now wake up to the fact that politically they are dead in Texas."

Pinchot Stresses Independence In Campaign Speech

"No Need For Philadelphia Votes" Gubernatorial Candidate Asserts

IS CAMPAIGNING THROUGH STATE

Gifford Pinchot Lays Down Ultimatum—Kline Supports "Forester"

(International News Service)
TOWANDA, Pa., Sept. 10.—Swinging into the third day of active campaigning for election to the governorship of Pennsylvania, Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee, today was carrying a message of political independence to voters.

Pinchot read his "declaration of independence" here last night when in a campaign address he told his hearers he felt no need of the Philadelphia Republican organization for election.

"We won in the primary without them and we can do it again," he declared.

His statement closely followed a challenge to Philadelphia Republican leaders to support or reject his candidacy in unequivocal terms.

"I had a lot to say about the Philadelphia gang in the primary campaign and I take none of it back now," Pinchot asserted. "No matter what they do we'll carry this election through. We'll roll up such a big majority that it won't make a bit of difference what Philadelphia does."

Up-State Voter
The election, Pinchot said, will be decided by up-state voters, and he told his hearers that his campaign throughout northern Pennsylvania has been attended by ever-growing crowds.

From Honesdale, he declared the crowds which have been hearing his speeches have been growing.

"If this means anything," Pinchot declared, "it means that upstate voters are determined to decide the election as they did the primary."

The former governor today will carry his campaign into Tioga and Potter counties, speaking at Coudersport, Wellsboro and Mansfield.

Mayor Kline Returns
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 10.—With the assertion that he "had always been a Republican who never bolted his party ticket," Mayor Charles H. Kline returned to his desk today, following a six weeks vacation abroad, and pledged allegiance to the cause of Gifford Pinchot.

Kline's statement follows closely that of Mayor Mackey of Philadelphia, who also returned from a European tour with a declaration of loyalty to the "tall forester from Pike County."

Commends State On Good Highways

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10.—A special file maintained by the Pennsylvania Department of Highways is devoted to keeping complimentary letters from individuals, who find cause for praise while driving through the State on the State Highway system. James Lyall Stuart, secretary of the Department, had added to the collection of laudatory letters from a university teacher of various transportation subjects.

The professor wrote: "There is only one State in the Union that is in any way comparable with Pennsylvania as far as roads are concerned both in quantity and quality and that state is California (permit me to assure that it is a genuine compliment because I am a Californian)."

Commenting on the engineering methods embodied in Pennsylvania roads the correspondent especially mentioned the well-banked curves and the smooth riding surfaces. He expressed thanks to Pennsylvania for providing him with a pleasant summer's trip.

Pennsylvania motorists were paid a compliment by the professor, who wrote that he was much impressed by the observance of traffic regulations and that fact that most of the cars, natives especially, kept to their own side of the road, "lack of which" the writer asserted, "is the cause of a larger per cent of highway accidents."

You will learn, without surprise, that Europe blames the revolution on the United States. In Rome, the Fascist newspaper, Il Tevere says South America's trouble is limiting the United States, its constitution and its centralizations of power. Also, "the famous Monroe Doctrine" is a disturbing factor.

IF IT WERE not for that doctrine, Japan might have half of South America today, and Germany the other half.

But we can afford to let that go provided we do not let the Monroe Doctrine go.

IVAR KREUGER, of Sweden, seems to be a sort of Charles the Twelfth in finance, and able to last. Still in the thirties, and "match king" of Sweden, he was lent $250,000,000 to the various governments in return for semimonopolies in their territory.

He is said, now, to be acquiring control of the Diamond Match Company here in the United States, and stockholders in the International Telephone and Telegraph Company are interested, or should be, in the fact that Kreuger is reaching out for control of telephones in a dozen different countries.

"Tom Crawford" Sought In South

Familiar Name Comes Over Teletype Machine At Police Station

Memories of the murder of Corporal Brady Paul were revived with considerable force yesterday by the message coming in over the state police teletype machine at the city police station.

This was due to the fact that a message was sent in over the machine asking the police to be on the lookout for one "Tom Crawford" wanted in Louisville, Ky., for escaping jail at that place in June 1, 1929 while waiting there to be transferred to a penitentiary to serve a term of 21 years for murder.

As it will be remembered, Tom Crawford is the name of the brother of Irene Schroeder, now sentenced to death for her part in the murder of Corporal Brady Paul. It will be remembered that he was supposed to be with her and Glen Dague when the shooting of Corporal Paul took place. He has never been seen since.

He is described as being 43 years of age, weighing 146 pounds, being five feet and six and one-half inches in height, having brown hair, gray eyes, a medium complexion. The man wanted was born in Georgia and is a mechanic.

Greatest Lover of the Great White Way At the Capitol Tomorrow

Lon Chaney's "The Unholy Three" Ends Tonight.

Outstanding Technicolor Revue Scenes in "Lord Byron of Broadway"

When Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer purchased the screen rights to Neil Martin's best-seller, "Lord Byron of Broadway," some time ago, individuals interested in Hollywood activities wondered which of the company's stars would be given the featured parts which demanded a definite ability for both singing and dancing.

Now comes the announcement that the two leading roles will not be filled by any of the recognized M-G-M stars but that the picture will serve as the introduction to the screen of two Broadway musical-comedy celebrities, namely Charles Kaley of "Earl Carroll's Vanities" and Ethelred Terry, star of "Rio Rita," "Kid Boots" and other successes.

With the intention of keeping the production on a par with such of its earlier musical picture hits as "The Broadway Melody" and "Hollywood Revue," Nacio Herb Brown and Arthur Freed, composers of "Singin' in the Rain," "Wedding of the Painted Doll" and other numbers of big sale caliber, were engaged to write music and lyrics.

As a final guarantee of the superb song and dance qualifications of the production, Harry Beaumont, director of "The Broadway Melody," was assigned supervision of the singing end of the picture, while Sammy Lee, former Ziegfeld dance coach, was engaged to execute the Technicolor revue scenes, and Mme. Albertina Rasch the huge ballet sequences.

In order that the musical end of the picture would not overpower the plot, William Nigh, director of a long string of Lon Chaney productions, took over the megaphone while responsibility for continuity and dialogue was entrusted to Crane Wilbur and Willard Mack, erstwhile actors and playwrights.

With Kaley and Miss Terry supported by such screen favorites as Marion Shilling, recently of "Wise Girls," Cliff Edwards, better known as "Ukulele Ike," Gwen Lee, Benny Rubin and a number of other players appear in this finest of all musical romantic tuneful talkies "The Lord Byron of Broadway."

Lowly Lightning Rod Assumes Importance In World Of Business

Lawrence County Once Shunned Lightning Rod Salesmen, Now Has Many Rods

Lawrence county, where lightning rods are not uncommon on roofs and buildings in the farm districts, where they have been introduced during the last century by enterprising salesmen who were rarely encouraged, will be interested to learn about the lightning rod business.

While most businesses may be depressed these days the lightning rod appears to be still a good seller. A ride through this district will prove that fact.

Commerce department statistics reveal that the lightning rod industry last year sold 9,608,123 feet of rod valued at $1,232,110 as compared with 2,443,558 feet worth $923,187 in 1928. Business was so good in fact that 24 firms were engaged in last year as against 19 the year before.

Old Laying Grounds At Rail Bird Season State Game Farm Will Be Sewed In With Wheat Crop

Gang plows are moving over some wide stretches of territory at the Jordan state game farm near Harlansburg, and next summer flaxen colored wheat will wave in the air on this same land.

During the spring months of this year the fields that are now being plowed were used as pheasant laying fields. Next spring the laying fields will be located in an entirely different place, far from the 1930 laying fields.

Different laying fields must be had every season in order to prevent the spread of disease among the pheasants, explains H. J. Sines, keeper of the game farm. Dozens of different kinds of disease would kill off the birds if the laying fields were not changed every year.

Wire fencing, eight or nine feet in height, surrounds the entire 325 acres of the Jordan state game farm. Mr. Sines estimates that there must be about seven miles of fencing used on the farm, including that used in the pens and around the laying fields, etc.

The fence is buried one foot in the ground to prevent the entrance of vermin that might destroy the young pheasants. Vermin, according to Sines, will dig for several inches in the ground to get under an obstruction, but seldom will they dig down a foot.

Not much trouble was experienced from preying animals during the spring laying season because of the excellent fencing. If pheasants in the laying fields are disturbed by animals or humans, they will not lay.

One of the main requisites for a good laying field is quiet.

CITY GETS $900
Receipts from the issuance of permits for pheasant hunting in the state amounted to $902.35, according to a report of Inspector William Dunlap, Jr., to Controller Phil Greer.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10.—The open season for hunting rail birds in Pennsylvania which began on September 1 will continue until November 30.

Hunting of the birds is confined almost entirely to the marshes in southeastern counties as they are seldom seen along the open waterways.

Virginia and Sora rails are the two species most common in Pennsylvania. The Virginia rail is about the size of a robin while the Sora species is smaller.

Impetus Given Canal Project

New Castle Chamber Of Commerce Starts Machinery Working For Canal Survey

FOUR ROUTES ARE BEING CONSIDERED

Through the effort of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce official machinery has been set in motion by army engineers and other high officials to expedite work on a survey to determine whether the War department will approve construction of a canal linking the Ohio river with Lake Erie or of an extension of the present inland waterways system to Youngstown and Warren.

Impetus was given to rush the project after a conference had been held between Alfred W. Chilton, secretary of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce, who is also the secretary of the Beaver, Mahoning and Shenango River Improvement association, and General George B. Pillsbury, assistant chief of army engineers. General Pillsbury this week requested Colonel Jarvis Bain, in charge of the Pittsburgh district, to expediate work on a survey to determine if the Youngstown extension should be made.

Colonel Bain had previously indicated that he would not be able to complete this report until June, but the survey was ordered rushed after the conference between Pillsbury and the New Castle Chamber of Commerce secretary.

The board of engineers for rivers and harbors recently extended the time for final report on four proposals to construct a canal from the Ohio river to Lake Erie until January 1, 1931. Their report on the desirability of constructing such a canal is expected to be made soon after these briefs are submitted.

Consider Four Routes
The four routes under consideration are: first, a canal from Beaver, Pa. to Ashtabula, O.; second, from Cincinnati to Toledo, via the Miami and Maumee rivers; third, from Portsmouth to Sandusky by way of the Scioto and Sandusky rivers and the fourth, from the Allegheny river to Erie, Pa., by way of French creek.

Five years ago Col. C. W. Kutz, then district engineer at Cincinnati, although admitting the feasibility of these routes submitted an adverse report of them claiming that the tonnage able to be handled would not justify the construction expenses. Last February after making the studies designed to upset the Kutz report, four distinct groups of cities appeared in Washington to urge favorable action on the canal proposals.

In addition to considering these four routes for a possible canal to Lake Erie, War department engineers are now engaged on a survey to determine the feasibility of a waterway connecting Lake Michigan and Lake Erie with the Ohio river by utilizing the Maumee river from Toledo to Fort Wayne, Ind., the Wabash river from Fort Wayne to the Ohio river and the St. Joseph river to K Lake, Michigan.

SEEK HUSBAND (?) MURDERED WOMAN IN PHILADELPHIA

been identified last night by her sister, Mrs. Olga Dean, a vaudeville entertainer and the widow of a former Chicago orchestra leader, police quizzed Thomas Lambert, an orphan and senior at the University of Pennsylvania, who lived in an apartment opposite the room occupied by the slain woman in West Philadelphia. A native of Louisville, Ky., furnished a description of the man with whom the slain woman was last seen. This description, police learned from Mrs. Dean, corresponds to that of the missing ex-husband of the nurse.

Mystery Envelopes
The investigation took a new turn today and more mystery enveloped the case when it was discovered Mrs. Radler had been robbed of three valuable diamond rings and a small handbag with a small amount of cash. Police do not believe, however, that robbery was the motive behind the slaying.

County Detective John Stevenson, of Montgomery county, the man in charge of the probe, believes the rings and handbag were taken to hamper identification.

Another puzzling turn also was given the case when Mrs. Dean revealed her sister was a drug addict. A number of hypodermic syringes of the kind commonly used in narcotic drug cases were found in the woman's room and Mrs. Dean admitted, police said, that her sister used drugs.

Born in Russia
Mrs. Radler, she said, was born in Russia and emigrated to this country with her parents while still a child. Mrs. Dean, who was known as Mrs. Martin when she lived in Chicago, and two brothers, who still live in Chicago, came to this country at the same time.

The family first came to Philadelphia, but moved to Chicago, where Mrs. Radler was educated in the public schools. She was married upon her graduation from high school at the age of 16, but lived with her husband only a short time. Later she attended the nurses' training school at the Northeastern hospital, Chicago. Upon her graduation she came here. It was while here that she became a drug addict, Mrs. Dean said.

She underwent the "drug cure" several years ago, but had recently resumed the habit, according to the sister's story.

Mrs. Dean and her sister spent the summer at Atlantic City, moving to the West Philadelphia apartment house only a few weeks ago.

Reports of the nation-wide credit survey in which New Castle merchants aided with the cooperation of the New Castle Credit exchange may be obtained by writing the Department of Commerce, Ray Hall, manager of the exchange said today.

The National Credit Retail survey conducted here nearly two years ago was partaken by the merchants who answered queries for the survey and returned lengthy questionnaires. The object of the survey was to get figures regarding the credit systems employed by merchants throughout the nation so that statistics could be compiled by the Department of Commerce, regarding the credit business of the country.

Mr. Hall said that merchants should avail themselves more of the statistics compiled in the survey. The information obtained by the government is for the use of everyone, whether they be affiliated with any credit exchange or not.

Mr. Hall was in charge of the survey for Lawrence County.

Mayor Orders Collecting Here To Be Stopped

Believes That This City Has Plenty Of Use For Old
Clothing

Captain C. S. McEwen of the Volunteers of America and two helpers were stopped this morning by order of Mayor William H. Gillespie from collecting old clothing and papers in their truck, and ordered before him. Captain McEwen and his helpers were from Youngstown and were collecting for the headquarters of the organization located there. Captain McEwen admitted to the mayor that the stuff gathered here was taken to Youngstown and sold from the Youngstown store of the Volunteers of America.

Mayor Gillespie notified them to cease operations here, as he felt that there was plenty of uses for old cast off clothing in this city and also the sale of old papers here would aid the needy here. He felt that the stuff should not be removed from this city, he said, for the benefit of another community, when the need was so great here.

Hearing of the application of the Bell Telephone company for approval of their purchase of the municipal conduit system is under way before the public service commission today at Pittsburgh.

The commission asked the city recently to show the original cost, length of time the conduit has been in existence and how the city arrived at the price of $70,000 which the Bell agreed to pay.

City Solicitor White, Councilman Burns and City Electrician Nickum appeared before the commission as witnesses for the city.

Harmony's Plea To Be Heard

Pittsburgh, Harmony, Butler & New Castle Railway company's application for a permanent order abandoning operation and rail route in the city of New Castle is being heard today by the public service commission in session at Pittsburgh. A preliminary grant to cease operations and abandon tracks was granted sometime ago. The city will not contest the permanent order application.

PICK UP WITNESS IN NARCOTIC CASE

Tony Rich was picked up last night by Officers Moore and Thomas, on a suspicion charge, because of the fact that he was wanted in connection with the narcotic acts brought against several local men recently. He was released on his pledge to appear at the office of the United States Commissioner in Pittsburgh on Thursday.

Fraud Is Alleged In Securing Credit

Claimed Son Of Bessemer Merchant Made False Representations To Bureau

Alleging fraud in securing credit, Nunn, Bush and Weldon Shoe Company of Milwaukee, Wis., have filed a suit at the prothonotary's office against Samuel A. Levine to recover a balance of $566.25.

In the statement of claim it is alleged that Samuel A. Levine had been in business at 11 South Jefferson street for a number of years. It is claimed that they had been through the bankruptcy court.

At the time the goods were obtained from plaintiff, one Samuel Levin was in the same business at 1330 Moravia street. Samuel Levin was perfectly solvent and his credit was good.

A short time before the transaction involved in this suit Samuel A. Levine removed his business to Bessemer. It is claimed that Morris Levine, a minor son of Samuel A. Levine, in the latter's behalf, applied to plaintiffs representative in Pittsburgh for credit.

It is charged that Morris represented that his father's name was Samuel Levin and that he had been in business at 1330 Moravia street, and that he had a good credit rating. This was verified by the Pittsburgh credit rating bureau.

Relying on this statement, which it is claimed was false, credit was extended to Samuel A. Levine to the amount of $1,381.92 by plaintiff. On this bill $725.67 was paid leaving a balance of $656.25 for which suit is brought.

was reported to the city solicitor's office as having been able to go to school today. The city solicitor has been instructed by council to examine the doctor bills as the result of the caddy's injuries.

NO CONTAGIOUS CASES
Health conditions here are good, according to Miss Myra Nixon, municipal health bureau clerk. "We haven't had a contagious case reported this week," she stated today.

One And Half Thousand Pheasants Will Remain At Game Farm In Winter

Three thousand pheasants are hatching contentedly around on the vast acreage of the Jordan State Game Farm, one mile off the main highway at Harlansburg. These birds are all that remains of the 7000 that were raised at the Game Farm during the past season.

Of the 3000, H. J. Sines and his son, Jason Sines, officials in charge of the Farm, will soon choose 1500 birds to be used for breeding purposes next spring. The birds who are not picked out for breeding purposes will be sent out to various points of Pennsylvania, to be released for the coming pheasant season, just as were the 4000 birds before them.

On Sunday's according to Jason Sines, there are often one hundred or more automobiles at the Game Farm, bringing people from New Castle, Pittsburgh, and places in Ohio, to see the many fine pheasants.

A lane of large, wire pens was erected several months ago and birds of beautiful colors occupy each pen. There are the Golden pheasants, birds of glorious red breasts, yellow heads, brown tail feathers, bluish black wings. Then the gorgeous Lady Amherst with the brilliant feathered coat and white breast; the Ring-neck the Japanese Versi-colored pheasants of the beautiful plumage; the yellow and black Reeves and the pretty silver pheasants.

It is only the Ring-neck pheasants that are released for gaming purposes. The other pheasants are raised strictly as show birds.

The Lady Amherst is probably the most beautiful of the birds. There is but one Lady Amherst at the Game Farm that has its "dress clothes" according to Mr. Sines, and that one will be much more beautiful next year, if being but one year old now.

The Reeves pheasants are beginning to lose that scraggly look, for they are getting over the molting season, and the pretty winter feathers are coming in fast. It won't be long until they will have their full plumage.

Several foxes and a mink are also on display along the sight-seeing lane.

They were caught on an around about the farm.

H. J. Sines and his son were kept busy from the early part of the year until late in July, with gathering and packing 48,000 pheasant eggs and sending them out through Pennsylvania. Each egg necessitated being separately wrapped in newspaper before packed away in the mailing boxes.

If every one of those eggs that were sent out, hatched into baby pheasants, then 55,000 pheasants in all originated on the Jordan State Game Farm.

Relatives Seek Missing Man

Departs After Dumping Out All His Belongings On Porch Of Relative

Police authorities of the city have been asked to assist in trying to locate Harry Miller, aged 70, who left his home with J. C. French, Harbor road, R. D. No. 2, Tuesday morning, taking with him a suitcase filled with his belongings.

He came into the city and went to the home of a relative residing on Park avenue between 4 and 5 p. m., where he emptied all his belongings from his suitcase on the front porch and then disappeared and has not been seen since.

Mr. Miller is described as being 70 years of age, having very white hair, smooth face and wearing a dark suit, and light felt hat.

Foreign War Vets Meet Service Clubs

The meeting will be held in the post room of the home and will be concluded with a lunch.

May Cross White Line When Danger Point Is Passed

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10.—J. I. Resler, a Scottsdale editor, recently wrote the Bureau of Motor Vehicles concerning a legend on the detour map of the State Highway Department: "If the white line on the road were a fence you'd keep to the right."

"An excellent bit of advice," Resler wrote.

"Just the thing to make a boy like me think (been driving only about thirteen years—and am only 53) Many's the time I've been tempted to pass a slow horse near a hilltop—only to rejoice that I did not try when I saw the big auto scoot over the top toward us."

"But here's another case: 'I'm over the hilltop. And there's the boss and buggy. I can see past them for a half a mile and beyond. There's nothing on the road but me and my car and that boss-drawn buggy. But there is a white line! And what do you guess I did? Actually, I've crossed the line, descended the hill at a rate between 15 and 30, and gone on my way in peace."

"Did I violate the law? I didn't mean to. I never want to violate the law, but I want to know so I can keep within the law."

The Scottsdale man was advised "that there is nothing in the Motor Code to prevent his crossing the white line if he has passed the crest of the hill, provided his view is unobstructed for at least 300 feet ahead and no other car is approaching."

Landlord Shoots Idle Tenant

Mrs. Harry Paul and her two children found their 26-year-old husband and father lying on the doorstep of their home with a bullet wound in his right lung when they rushed home from the police station, where they had gone to protest against their landlord's procedure in removing their household goods from the house. The landlord, Edward A. Felt, 49, said he shot Paul when the latter attempted to regain admission to the house after he had evicted him for non-payment of rent.

Oil Well Supply Sale To Steel Corporation Is Given Ratification

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Sept. 10.—Stockholders of Oil Well supply company today awaited action of the United States Steel corporation on the option held by Steel to purchase the assets of the Oil Well company, following ratification of the sale by the supply company stockholders at a special meeting yesterday.

More than 80 per cent of the outstanding common stock of Oil Well voted in favor of the deal. The vote was reported as 335,000 for and 85,000 against.

According to the terms of the option the Steel corporation will pay $4,992 shares of its common stock and, at its option, either $6,865,800 in cash or such number of shares rated at its closing price on the New York Stock Exchange two days before the date of closing as will equal the amount.

In addition to favoring the proposed sale the stockholder approved the proposal to change the company's name to the Pittsburgh United Corporation.

Approval of certain guarantees made to United States Steel in relation receivable and inventories were voted at the meeting. None of these affects the terms of the option.

The only obligatory action in the part of the Oil Well company is to pay off the $800,000 Wilson-Snyder manufacturing corporation 6 per cent debentures, it was said.

Man Is Killed In Fall Out Window

Man Believed To Be C. W. Thompson Of Maple Shade, New Jersey, Killed In Philadelphia

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—A man believed to be C. W. Thompson, of Maple Shade, N. J., plunged to his death from a third floor window of the Adelphia Hotel here early today.

The dead man had registered as "James Tompkins, Newark, N. J., but from papers in his handbag, police believe his real name to be C. W. Thompson, an insurance company official.

His head was nearly severed as his body hurtled through the metal and glass canopy over the Chestnut street entrance to the hotel. Physicians said the man had slashed his wrists before leaping from the window.

Changes Mind As Wife Objects To Special Tag 13

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10.—"The Husband Obey's" is the proper title for a story which recently unfolded itself to Motor Vehicles Commissioner Benjamin G. Eynon. He received the following letter from a Philadelphia:

"On Tuesday last I visited your department to ask as a favor if you would give me for 1931 a license plate with GR on it. The young lady at the entrance very kindly and graciously said I could have GR13 if I was not superstitious. I am not."

"But, gentlemen, I am Henpecked, and when I told my good wife about No. 13 she started to cry and has been doing so ever since. So I must most respectfully ask, could you spare me some other number, anything but 13. The wife predicts all kinds of hardships for me otherwise and I do not think she would idle with me. Again let me say I am right sorry to cause you the inconvenience. The only excuse I can offer is that I am the original Mr. Henpeck."

Commissioner Eynon has seen to it that there is no further reason for tears on the part of the Philadelphia wife.

Prisoners Work On Deer Licenses

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10.—Special deer license tags are now being manufactured by the Western State penitentiary for delivery about October 1, according to a report of Harry E. Andrews, superintendent of prison industries, state department of welfare.

The report indicates that during June and July production in the tag department of the prison centered on auto, dog, hunters' tags and highway signs. More than 100 men were employed in the department during the two months and it is expected that this number will increase in an effort to produce 1931 auto license tags in sufficient quantities for the annual demand.

Maybe this proves that London doesn't dominate the league.—The South Bend Tribune.

Checks Effect Of Drought On Trees

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10.—Investigations have recently been conducted at the Pennsylvania Forest Research Institute located at Mont Alto on the effect of the recent drought on forest trees in southern Pennsylvania.

Hickory, white oak and red maple, in spite of their habit of rooting deep, and other forest trees, showed considerable injury. Scarlet oak apparently surpassed all other oaks in its ability to resist drought followed by rock, red, white and pin oaks. Black locust showed an exceptionally high resistance to drought. It was discovered that European larch showed abnormal drying of foliage, but Japanese larch has suffered very much more seriously.

Foresters noted with interest that the pines and conifers in general showed less injury than hardwoods. Table mountain pine was apparently the only absolutely drought resistant tree that was discovered. The study was carried on by Research Foresters George S. Perry and Chester Coover, under the direction of Willis M. Baker, director of the institute.

Thrashers Must Carry Insurance

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10.—Hundreds of owners of thrashing machines operating throughout Pennsylvania have been warned by W. H. Horner, director of the bureau of workmen's compensation, department of labor and industry, that they are required to carry insurance for the protection of their employees under the workmen's compensation act. Horner cited the provision of the act which prescribes a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $500, or imprisonment of not more than six months, or both, for employers who fail to provide compensation insurance.

Film Tells Story Of Game Bird Life

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10.—A two-reel motion picture depicting game farming in Pennsylvania has been completed and will be available to sportsmen's organization after September 15. The picture shows every feature of game propagation from the time the birds are hatched until they reach maturity, including groups of several thousand ringnecked pheasants and hundreds of wild turkeys winging their way from nearby ridges when the "dinner bell" sounds at the game farm.

College Alumni Will Meet Here

Westminster Committee Of 100 To Gather At The
Castleton On Friday

PLAN REORGANIZATION OF COLLEGE BODY

Reorganization plans for the Westminster College alumni association will be discussed at a meeting to be held in The Castleton, Friday evening, September 12, at 6:30, according to Dr. S. E. Calhoun, New Wilmington, president.

A committee of 100 men will gather at a banquet of the organization which will be known as the Westminster College Society. Copies of the constitution and by-laws have been mailed a large number of alumni and former students.

At the commencement meeting of the alumni in June, plans were formulated to reorganize the alumni group. As a result, Dr. Calhoun and his aides worked all summer making contacts with alumni through letters and visits. The meeting Friday is planned to be the first step in the direction of reorganization. A general meeting, planned for homecoming day, October 11, will place the new organization in official existence.

Dr. Calhoun reports that a list of former students and a complete list of alumni have been compiled for the use of the society. Through cooperation with the Holcad, through weekly the alumni will be kept in touch with activities both on the campus and among the alumni group.

While only members of the committee of 100 alumni are invited to Friday night's meeting, the meeting on homecoming day will be open to all alumni and all former students, Dr. Calhoun stated.

Discussion of alumni interests, college affairs, and the reorganization of the graduates of Westminster into a society will occupy the time following the banquet.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10.—Anonymous writers who deluge the Bureau of Motor Vehicles with hundreds of letters weekly are wasting their time, according to Benjamin G. Eynon, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles.

"Every day," said Eynon, "we receive a great many communications in which operators and owners of motor vehicles are vigorously denounced and accused of sundry misdemeanors. Those responsible for the great majority, however, are loath to reveal their identity—therefore their letters are either without a signature, or are signed 'A Friend' or 'Law Observer' or something of the sort. Naturally we pay no attention to communications of this sort. Were we to attempt to run down information conveyed in anonymous communications, the entire time of the State Highway Patrol would be taken up. On the other hand, when complaints are received bearing an authentic signature, a thorough investigation is made. In too many instances anonymous information is sent in by persons who have an axe to grind. The only benefit that I see in the writing of this sort of letter is the added revenue resulting to the United States Postal Department."

Reading Mr. Coolidge, you can't help wondering why he didn't feel free to say it while President.

Two new teachers are on the teaching staff of the Thaddeus Stevens school, according to Principal L. C. Black. The enrollment at that school on the opening day was 467.

Gala Night Of Fun Enjoyed By Class At First Baptist

"Soldo" Escapes From Chains
And Handcuffs; Musical
Selections Given

The spacious basement of the First Baptist church became the stage for Sol S. Davis, New Castle mystifier, who thrilled 200 members and wives of the Men's Bible Class at the conclusion of an old-fashioned corn roast, Tuesday evening.

The men's chorus of the church choir was led in several selections by W. O. "Red" Williams. George Jones sang "Watt Mitchell produced his musical saw and played enchanting tones. Miss Elizabeth Owens was the piano accompanist.

Davis, better known as "Soldo" was introduced by Earl Reebie. The tricks by the man who does not claim to be a magician held the audience spellbound. "Soldo" was handcuffed by Officer Kennedy of the New Castle police; chained many times, placed in a huge box—locked in. And again the mystifier escaped.

One of the highlights of the evening was the presentation by the class of a beautiful bouquet of flowers to Mrs. James Richards who with her husband celebrated their 34th wedding anniversary Tuesday.

Arrangements for the affair were planned by George Fox, president of the class and his aides, including James Herbert, Harry Cook, Dave Harris, and the pastor of the church, Rev. George M. Landis.

Welker's Meetings Close This Week

Evangelistic Services By Rev.
Jesse Whitecotton To Conclude With Week

This week will see the close of the evangelistic meetings which have been conducted in the Welker Greenhouse the past two weeks, by Rev. Jesse Whitecotton of Lapell, Ind.

A feature of the Tuesday evening service was the singing of an especially appropriate hymn by the choir of the First United Presbyterian church with two numbers by the choir of the Second Baptist church.

The building was well filled and Rev. Whitecotton presented a heart searching, spiritually uplifting sermon on "Godly Jealousies," which was well received by the congregation, a number of accessions being made at the close of the service.

Featuring this evening's musical program will be special numbers by the chorus from the People's mission. Thursday evening there will be solos by Paul Browne Patterson and Charles J. Hoskins and Friday evening the Men's Bible class of the First Baptist church will attend the service in a body and offer the musical numbers.

"Fletcherizing" Tests Show It's Just A Fad

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
Horace Fletcher, when 41 years of age, was rejected for life insurance. He decided his poor physical condition was due to wrong methods of eating and began to put himself on a system of eating known now as Fletcherizing.

He never ate until he was hungry. He always stopped when he was satisfied. He always chewed every morsel of food so long that he could not resist the impulse to swallow it. He said the food "swallowed itself."

He was repeatedly examined by physicians and diet experts during the latter years of his life. He always claimed that he was improved beyond description by his diet method, and advised all the world to follow it. He wrote a great many books. Like most diet faddists he, unfortunately, did not have the satisfaction of living to a very advanced age to be able to say, "I told you so." He died, if my memory serves me correctly, at the age of 58. I have known a good many people who were turned down for life insurance, did as they darn pleased afterwards and lived as long as that.

However, quite recently a Doctor Holck has concluded a long and interesting experiment. He tested Fletcher's theory on himself. He Fletcherized for more than a year. During that year he carried out very careful tests of the state of his nutrition on himself. The results are published in a monograph issued by the University of Chicago Press, called "Diet and Efficiency."

On the whole, Dr. Holck sees little reason to adopt Fletcherizing. I give some of his exact conclusions:

"During 75 weeks of modified Fletcherizing the eating time per 1,000 calories was doubled, the food intake was lowest.

"Fletcherizing decreased muscular endurance, typewriting accuracy and basal metabolism (general nutrition)."

"It had no significant effect on blood pressure, pulse, temperature, sleeping time, mental multiplication and typewriting speed."

"It induced improvement in efficiency of solving chess problems, and an approach in the rather high body weight, toward the common standards."

Thus another diet fad looks as if it were going to dissolve when subjected to the strong light of science.

Editor's Note: Dr. Clendingen cannot diagnose or give personal answers to letters from readers. Where questions are of general interest, however, they will be taken up, in order, in the daily column. Address your queries to Dr. Logan Clendingen, care of this paper. Write legibly and not over 200 words.

Too Much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once, the symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

GRAHAM SIXES AND EIGHTS • ALWAYS FAR IN ADVANCE

Ellis W. Riney
invites you to the Graham showroom
for demonstration-proof that GRAHAM
is the World's Greatest Value

As to Safety Glass—Graham cars were the first anywhere near their price to adopt full equipment of Safety Plate Glass, the greatest safety factor since the coming of four-wheel brakes—and Graham will prove its brakes the finest and most positive it is possible to build.

As to Lovelier, Luxurious Bodies—Graham cars are distinguished by quality, grace, luxury, beauty and extra durability. Built in Graham body plants for Graham cars—and only for Graham cars. Come to the showroom and see how Graham builds the fine body for the fine Graham-built chassis.

As to greater power—From 66 h. p. in the $845 Standard Six 4-Door Town Sedan to 100 h. p. in the Eights is the power range of the smooth, flexible Graham-built engines. Come to the showroom and drive a Graham for power and performance.

NOW—AS TO PRICE—Graham cars have never had to be "cut" to make a "value" of them. Their value has always been their higher quality at their honest price. Per pound, the Graham price is lower than for any other quality cars today—26.8 cents per pound in the Town Sedan, for example. Proof conclusive of quality and the world's greatest value.

Carry these facts with you to the Graham showroom, and put Graham cars to the test of sight, of touch, of hearing—of actual use and travel—and of price comparison with any car that even pretends to this much value.

Consider with us every factor in your purchase of a car—including a fair, square allowance on your present car, applied on your choice of a Graham car that leads the entire market in value on the most liberal payment plan. Accept our invitation and come to the Graham show-room today!

Bo-Broadway
by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Jimmy Walker kicked up a lot of unintentional merriment recently when he called a meeting of public spirited citizens to ask their help in ridding the city of "petty graft."

"One thing you got to give Jimmy credit for," everybody remarked. "They ain't nothin' petty about him."

PASSING

There's something pathetic about the disintegration of a once glorious thoroughfare or a well-known building of fair repute. There are many such places and buildings around Gotham and in a distant day were resorts of beauty and fashion and money, now down-at-the-heel, shabby, shoddy, sometimes slimy.

The Fifth Avenue Theater, at Broadway and 23rd street, is an example of what I mean. The Street of Queer percentages used to sparkle infested by the fly-by-nights and the Fifth Avenue Theater has been swept along with the tide. Its background is as colorful as that of any great show shop in town. Duse played there, old Joe Jefferson, and there Sir Arthur Sullivan led the orchestra at the premier in America of the first of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas.

Today the facade of the theater is smothered by blue and white oil-cloth signs, torn and stained, advertising a phoney lascivious spectacle for gawking adolescents: "Un-guarded Girls. For Men Only."

FINANCIAL CYRANO

Speaking of Old Morgan. He was terribly sensitive about that beak of his. It took all the sunlight out of his life.

There he sat in his upholstered swivel chair in his big marble office, puffing at long, black Cuban cigars, cracking his whip over Wall Street and making the little scared-eyed sycophants like it, holding half of Europe in hook in the vaults under the sidewalk of his banking house—the bullying, two-fisted, broad-shouldered, sagging-lipped Cock of the Walk—afraid to look at himself in the mirror.

BIOGRAPHY

Johnny Winkler, who wrote the character and history of John D. Rockefeller, has tried his sinewy and sunburnt fist of J. P. Morgan. He calls it "Morgan the Magnificent" and studiously justifies the awe the title implies.

Instead of approaching the Old Gorgon with the easy, graceful, swashbuckling stride that should characterize the gait of a biographer of Old Man Morgan, Mr. Winkler tiptoes softly up with the half mischievous, half apologetic smile of a not-very-bad schoolboy.

You get an idea, more by what he leaves unsaid, of Mr. Winkler not being unimpaired that the descendants of J. P. are richer and more powerful than ever the old man was, and that it may not be expedient for a bright

Samuel Mather Is Likely To Become Merger Witness

One Of Wealthiest Citizens Of Ohio May Testify In Sheet & Tube Merger Suit

TRY TO ESTABLISH FAIRNES IN MERGER

(International News Service)
YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 10.—With court circles agog over the prospect of Samuel Mather, reputed to be one of Ohio's wealthiest citizens, appearing as a witness, trial of the injunction suit against the merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube company with Bethlehem Steel corporation today was devoted to the monotonous and technical testimony to establish the fairness of the merger terms.

The likelihood of Mather's appearance on the witness stand in the trial of the injunction suit developed yesterday when Newton D. Baker, chief counsel for sponsors of the steel union, said that the noted philanthropist and financier has expressed himself as being willing to testify.

Baker stated that "it is most likely" that Mather will be called. It did not appear probable, however, that he will testify before next week. S. Livingston Mather, son of the financier, testified as a "special court's witness" recently and declared that in voting his personal holdings in favor of the steel merger he was influenced largely by the attitude of his father.

W. B. Campbell, partner in Price, Waterhouse & Co., the auditing concern which prepared the figures upon which the merger terms were based, was still on the witness stand under the direct examination of P. H. Wood, Bethlehem attorney, when court adjourned yesterday. The witness was questioned in detail about the basic figures of the merger arrangement.

Nearly 300 Attend St. James' School

Parochial School On East Chartes Street Has Large Attendance

St. Philip and James parochial school, located on East Chartes street, which was recently opened for this school term, is attended daily by 285 students. This school is conducted by the parish, with Rev. Vincent V. Stancielewski as pastor. This institution was originated in 1924. Four sisters, members of the Holy Ghost Sisters of Pittsburgh, are the teachers.

At this school two languages are taught, English and Polish. The curriculum is the same as the public schools of the city with the exception that Polish grammar, reading and history are taught. Eight grades make up the school. After a student graduates from this school he will be required to attend junior high for one year and then go to high school.

The fifth grade, with 5 students, is the largest class in school. Daily the institution is opened first with services in church and then the children march to their rooms in the basement of the church. School opens at nine o'clock and closes at 3:45 o'clock in the afternoon. At 11:35 the children are dismissed for lunch.

This school has no kindergarten. During the holidays throughout the school year the children present plays and programs in connection with the holiday. Reports are issued at the beginning of each month. School closes every year in the latter part of June. The boys and girls receive religious lessons daily.

Since the opening of the school the enrollment has been increasing yearly and the parish feels that their school is proving a success in every way.

Demand For Finished Steel Is Increasing

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 10.—Slow materialization of the confidently expected seasonal recovery in iron and steel will be noted by the Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade tomorrow. Although demand for finished steel thus far this month has been moderately larger than in the corresponding part of August, nothing resembling a broad buying movement has set in and the persistence of discordant market tendencies continues to obscure the outlook.

Curtailment of pig iron production is apparently still under way with four additional furnaces, three of them steel plant stacks, taken out of service so far in September.

Ingot Output Increases. Sharply contrasted with the unimproved picture in pig iron requirements is the increase of 5.5 per cent in ingot output in August and the further gain this month indicated by current estimates. Present ingot production is fully 58 per cent of today's capacity (which is 3 to 4 per cent larger than the total officially reported at the close of 1929) and is 1½ per cent higher than the average for last month.

The gain in steel also contrasts with market tendencies in pig iron. Prices on foundry iron for local delivery have receded 50c a ton at Cleveland, and 50c concessions on attractive tonnages are reported at Chicago. Scrap markets, on the other hand, are holding their own with heavy melting grade up 25c a ton at Pittsburgh.

The Iron Age composite price for scrap has advanced from $13.67 to $13.75 a gross ton, up 37c from that of five weeks ago. The pig iron composite is unchanged at $16.88 a gross ton and the finished steel figure at 2.142c a pound.

Westminster To Open Sept. 16; Classes Start Friday, Sept. 19

Freshman Registration On Separate Day This Year

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 10.—Westminster college starts its 78th college year when on Tuesday, September 16, registration of freshman students begins at 9 o'clock in the morning. Unlike other years, the enrollment of first-year students will take place on a special day reserved for the orientation of the new students.

From 9 to 12 on the morning of September 16, and from 2 to 4 in the afternoon, professors will advise the freshmen, help them arrange their class schedule and aid in the matter of matriculation at the college. Again on Wednesday morning, September 17, freshmen may register from 9 o'clock until noon.

Upper classmen will be registered on Wednesday, September 17, and on Thursday, September 18. Officials and professors will be at their offices from 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon until 4 o'clock to register upper classmen, and again on Thursday from 9 o'clock in the morning until noon, and from 2 o'clock until 4.

There will be a break in registration on Thursday morning, September 18, when the opening or convocation chapel service will be held at 11 o'clock.

Class schedules have been mailed all old students so that many have already worked out their calendars of classes for the semester. The new schedules present a number of new names on the faculty list and also show a number of new courses for students. One change in particular effects students majoring in English. Sophomore English, hitherto required of all students, will not be required of those who major in English hereafter, but such students will be expected to substitute advanced courses in English or literature for the second year course.

Dr. J. A. Swindler, registrar, says that a number of applications have hand would indicate that there will be a slight drop in enrollment this year. He has received a number of letters from students during the summer in which the economic situation is cited as a cause for dropping from college for at least a year. But the number of new students, old students of two years ago returning and transfers, will keep the net enrollment at almost the same figure as it was last year.

Many Attend St. Michaels School

Close To 150 Students Enrolled In New Parochial School At Sheep Hill

Close to 150 boys and girls attend the St. Michael parochial school which is located on the corner of Moravia and Miller streets. This institution is sponsored by the parish of St. Michael's church with Rev. Ambrose Capatin as pastor. Three sisters teach at that school. This school was started in 1929.

It was opened for this school term on September 2. School starts at 9:45 and closes at 3:45 in the afternoon. The Slavish people who conduct the school feel that as the school becomes known the enrollment will increase to such an extent that every student of Slavish parentage will attend that institution.

Religion is one subject that the students receive lessons on every day. Reports are issued every month and school closes for the summer months in the latter part of June.

New Castle Man Has Original Letter By Martin Luther

In all the world there are known to be but six copies of original letters by Martin Luther. Three of them are in Europe and three in the United States. Until a few days ago there were but two in the United States, the third one arriving in New Castle from Germany Tuesday morning, September 9, and is the property of C. B. Randall's collection of manuscripts that has been growing over a long period of years.

The letter which arrived yesterday is really two letters, one in Latin and one in German, both the same, and both written to Joachim Morimund, a great prelate of Luther's time, a theologian, and one of his supporters. The letters are written in 1543, three years before the Reformer's death, and are said to be the only original copies extant in which he speaks of religion.

Paper Aged and Yellow

The paper upon which they are written are yellow with age, but still good. One of them is written on paper in which arsenic was used in the manufacture, and the arsenic spots that have appeared with the years give the page the appearance of having been stippled in sepia.

One cannot compute the value in money of such a treasure. It is literally priceless for were it destroyed it could not possibly be replaced. The gem has been placed alongside of a page of a Gutenberg Bible which is in Mr. Randall's library and the many other originals with which his library is so generously filled.

The translation of the letter of Martin Luther to his friends and associates follows:

Mercy and peace be God!

What other advice can I give as what Paulus and the Lord himself have advised, my dear Mr. Doctor: "Where nobody shall receive you, depart from that city and shake off the dust of your feet"; for, you have not rejected them, because they do not want to hear, but they reject you.

because you should not instruct them; "they have not rejected you, but me," said the Lord to Samuel, that he should not reign over them. And Paulus: "Since you now push away the word about salvation, see, we shall turn to the heathen." Thus you will not burden your conscience with the sins of the others, especially with those which they defend by contradicting their minister; therefore, let them have place for their wrath and revere, because the house is not worth that your peace should come from it, and do much as I can do in that matter, them should not be given another minister nor with my consent, not even an experienced (?) man, to say nothing of a more faithful minister, because I shall take care that one is appointed, who is able to step on your place. The Lord shall be judge over him and them evenly, we shall be consoled if we do wrong, their blood shall come over their head, that is my complete opinion. At the same time I declare to be against punishment, because I understand, that he wants to send a "legation" to me. You have done right by having laid open the matter before me, so that I shall know, what answer to give to it.

Be recommended to God.

(International News Service)
MOSCOW, Sept. 10.—The Graf Zeppelin hopped off from the municipal airport here at 4:50 o'clock this afternoon for Friedrichshafen, after having completed its first visit to Soviet Russia.

The big airship, commanded personally by Dr. Hugo Eckener and carrying 20 passengers, had remained here only a little over two hours. A crowd estimated at about 100,000 was on hand to witness the departure.

The boys who failed on the Edison questionnaire at least got good practice for the time when they have small boys of their own.

WHERE REVOLUTIONS ARE POPPING

Dotted portions of the map show the three South American countries which have been through the throes of political revolutions. Trouble first began at La Paz, Bolivia, on June 28, when a military junta seized governmental control held by President Hernandez Siles. On August 25, a revolt in Peru ended the 11-year-old dictatorship of President Augusto B. Leguia, and September 6 saw the regime of President Hipolito Yrigoyen fall in Argentina. Recent dispatches from Panama (shaded area) indicate a political upheaval there following the resignation of Jephtha B. Duncan, secretary of public instruction. His resignation followed that of three other cabinet members who quit as a protest against Duncan who has been a storm center.

Five Former Turtle Creek High Captains Are At Westminster

(Special To The News.)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 10.—With seven former Turtle Creek Union high school football stars on the Westminster college grid squad, "Foxy" Miller's school has the distinction of supplying the largest number of men to the Titan camp of any one school.

More than this, five of the members of the Titan squad are former Turtle Creek Union high captains. The lead of the valley school for each year since 1925 is a member of the United Presbyterian training camp.

Ben Haldy, halfback, led the Turtle Creek school in 1925; Captain Russell Boone, center, was captain there in 1926; Harry Michaels, quarterback, was captain in 1927; Victor Knabe, end, was captain in 1928, and Joseph Uram, guard or center, was captain at Turtle Creek last year.

The other two former Turtle Creek high stars on the Westminster squad are Emmett Tweedy, end, and Howard Beck, tackle. If Coach Miller of the valley school would send four more players, a fullback, another half, a tackle and a guard, Westminster could have an all-Turtle Creek team.

Identify Body Of Young Woman Found Victim Of Murder

Search Started By Philadelphia
Police For Man With Whom Woman Was Seen

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—The attractive red-haired girl found slain on a lonely road near Spring House, 20 miles north of here yesterday was identified today as Mrs. Ruth Radler, 27 year old divorcee and trained nurse.

Following identification police instituted a search for a man with whom she was last seen. He is being sought as the girl's slayer. The woman was found early yesterday shot through the back of the head. She was rushed to Abington Memorial hospital where she died two hours later without regaining consciousness.

Identification was made by a sister of the slain woman, Mrs. Olga Dean, a toe dancer and widow of a former Chicago orchestra leader. Questioning of acquaintances of the dead woman enabled police to get a minute description of the man in whose company she was last seen. The description was furnished by Thomas Lambert, of Louisville, Ky., a Senior in the Wharton school of the University of Pennsylvania. He occupies an apartment in the same building where the dead woman lived.

St. Leger Race

(International News Service)
DONCASTER, Eng., Sept. 10.—Singapore, a four-to-one choice, galloped home in the lead of a distinguished string of thoroughbreds of the English turf today to win the historic St. Leger stakes.

Parenthesis, another four-to-one favorite, finished second and Rustom Pasha, a comparative outsider, finished third.

Singapore paid 4 to 1; Parenthesis, 4 to 1 and Rustom Pasha, 20 to 1. Diolite, favored by many to win, and considered one of the fastest runners in England, did not finish in the money.

The St. Leger stakes was the final racing classic of the 1930 season in England, and the event drew large crowds of racing enthusiasts from all parts of England.

Singapore, with Gordon Richards up, was considered a comparative outsider only a few days ago, being quoted by the bookies at odds of 100 to 6, but during the past day or two his performance on training trials caught the fancy of the bettors, and the odds against him dropped to 4 to 1 just before the horses went to the barrier.

The distance of the St. Leger is one mile, six furlongs, 132 yards.

Council Journeys To Butler Avenue

Question Of New Sanitary Sewer
To Be Decided After Inspection

Municipal Engineer Frank Miller today had members of city council journey to Butler Avenue where he has had test holes dug for the purpose of finding out if it will be necessary for the city to construct a new sanitary sewer between East Washington street and the end of the present sanitary sewer.

When brick was removed from the thoroughfare it was found that the storm sewer laid on top of the sanitary sewer. It was impossible to operate the heavy roller over the storm sewer and council ordered a new storm sewer laid. It is practically three fourths completed.

Engineer Miller advised council on Monday that he had discovered leaks in the sanitary sewer system between Johns street and the end of the sanitary sewer and council arranged to rebuild that portion. At the same time they authorized an inspection between East Washington and Johns street.

The test holes were put down and council today journeyed to Butler Avenue and will decide late today or Thursday whether it is necessary to build a new sewer for the length of the repaving. The sanitary sewer under inspection was built in 1904, it is reported.

Canadians Plan Tariff Barrier For Protection

Canada, Best Customer Of America For Many Years
Will Jack Up Tariff

LEGISLATORS ARE NOW IN SESSION

American Industry Has Been Built Up By Protection
Canadians Contend

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff
Correspondent
(Copyright, 1930, By International News Service)

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 10.—Canada, which for many years has been America's best customer, is about to take a leaf from the American book and jack up her tariff barriers.

Any doubt about this has been dispelled by developments at the outset of the special session of the Canadian Parliament called by the new Bennett government in much the same fashion that the special session of the 71st congress was summoned by the Hoover administration eighteen months ago.

First Special Session

It is the first time that a special session of the Canadian Parliament has ever been summoned during peace, and excitement and interest is running high throughout the Dominion. The Liberals are out of power and the Conservatives are in—strongly in—with a definite working majority in the House of Commons and a clear mandate to proceed with those measures which the Conservative leaders deem necessary to rehabilitate and protect Canadian interests.

Canadians decry the word "retaliation" as applied to their tariff intentions with regard to the recently enacted Smoot-Hawley bill. Yet there is scarcely any doubt that the plans of the new government to boost tariff rates are designed to be just that. The Canadians do not intend to sit supinely by and see everything they sell to the United States priced higher to the ultimate consumer without taking some retaliatory action against American products, even though the phrase "retaliatory" is shunned and deprecated on all sides.

Need Protection

As one prominent Canadian officer put it to the International News Service correspondent:

"Your officials say that American industries have been built up and fostered through the American policy of protection. If that is true, the same policy applied from our side of the border is calculated to protect and foster Canadian industries. Surely there can be no complaint. Protection on your side of the border surely cannot be prejudicial on this side. We, too, have industries."

What the effect will be, however, on the commercial intercourse between the two countries, which last year reached the enormous figure of $1,368,000,000 in trade, remains to be seen. That new American tariff rates will give vast encouragement to the "trade within the British Empire" movement is acknowledged on all sides.

This "trade within the empire" theory is due for a thorough discussion at the forthcoming Imperial conference in London, convening September 30. The new Canadian Prime Minister, the Right Hon. Richard Bennett, is due to attend that conference, provided he can put his tariff and unemployment program through the special session in time to sail. In Ottawa there is little doubt that he will be able to do it. Unlike his predecessor, W. L. Mackenzie King, he has a complete working majority in the house, which is not incomparable to the Republican majority in the house of representatives at Washington.

Unemployment Acute
The unemployment problem in Canada is acute, just as much if not more so than in the United States. It was bad last spring. It became worse after the enactment of the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill by the American congress. Whether the enactment of this bill had anything to do with the increase in Canadian unemployment is a disputed question, but the fact remains that there were more jobless Canadians after its enactment than before.

The American tariff bill was signed in June. Within a month there was a general election in Canada, and the MacKenzie King government, which had held sway for some nine years, was voted out of power and the Conservative party, headed by Bennett, voted in.

The Canadian Premier is a lawyer, banker, manufacturer, and a strong Nationalist. The magnitude of his victory may be realized when it is considered that the MacKenzie King government consisted of 123 Liberals and 90 Conservatives, with the Progressives and Farmers holding the balance of power in a house of 245 members, and that the present government consists of 138 Conservatives and only 87 Liberals, with the Progressives-Farmers, so strong in the MacKenzie King government, entirely outside the breakthrough.

Secure in this majority and acutely conscious of the mandate which he interpreted his election to have meant, the new Premier called a special session of the Parliament to put Conservative measures into effect. If those measures, including increased tariffs against American products, mean hard luck to American producers, that, in the words of his friends, is "just too bad" but is inescapable under the circumstances. The next month will see them enacted.

ENGINEER REPORTS

F. F. Miller, city engineer, today reported to Phil Greer, controller, receipts during August in the engineer's department amounted to $135.25, derived from the sale of blueprints, excavation permits and building permits.

Testimony Against Bell Damaging In Uniontown Court

Surprise Witness Says He Heard Tony Bell Threaten To Kill Donahoe

CROWDS CONTINUE TO JAM COURTROOM

(International News Service) UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 10.—Following a series of surprises and startling bits of testimony yesterday, crowds of spectators again flocked to the Fayette county courthouse here today to attend the trial of Tony Bell, former Masontown chief of police charged with the slaying of Constable John F. Donahoe.

Edgar Patterson, of New York, a surprise witness who flatly refused to answer questions when called to the stand by special prosecutor A. E. Jones yesterday morning, returned to the stand late yesterday and denied statements of two former witnesses who had testified that on the night of the murder Bell had entered their automobile and threatened Donahoe's life.

Previous to Patterson's second appearance on the stand he conferred with Prosecutor Jones under orders from the court.

The testimony denied by Patterson was given by Edgar Whitty, Uniontown, another surprise witness for the commonwealth, who testified that Bell had entered his machine on the night Donahoe was slain and, pointing to a revolver in his pocket, had muttered: "The double crosser, he'll get this."

Mrs. Alice Whitty, his wife, corroborated the testimony of her husband.

Mrs. Velma Coll, Jean Miller and Bella Gorbach, all of Pittsburgh, were other witnesses yesterday. The three women lived at the home of Mrs. Helen Hess at the time of the murder and all testified that they often had seen Bell visiting at the Hess house.

Mrs. Hess, "star" witness for the state, had previously testified that she had known Bell a long time.

BABSON SEES BETTER BUSINESS THIS FALL

(International News Service) WELLESLEY, Mass., Sept. 10.—Improved business conditions this fall were predicted today by Roger W. Babson, statistician, opening the seventeenth annual National Business Conference of Babson Park.

"It is just as evident today that business is now bound to improve as it was evident a year ago that the high pace of early 1929 could not keep up," he said.

Declaring "There is just as much money in the country today as ever," and that the "need of the hour is to increase the circulation of money," Babson gave these four concrete suggestions for speeding up prosperity:

1—Reducing overhead by moving men from the office into the field;

2—Giving better measure to customers;

3—Discovering new products and new uses for present products;

4—Spending more money on advertising.

Stating that perhaps advertising was the most important factor of all, Babson said: "I wish to go on record today as definitely advising all clients to increase their advertising appropriations and to use newspapers, magazines and outdoor advertising in their respective campaigns and communities."

He pointed out that "this was a reversal of his statements of the past two years when he refused to recommend increased advertising appropriations when there was a shortage of goods, a shortage of labor and a shortage of money."

Sportsman Dies Of Bullet Wound

Police Believe Grant Powers Shot Following Argument Growing Out Of Party

(BULLETIN) (International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—Fatally wounded by a pistol bullet through the heart, Grant Powers, 36-year-old sportsman, son of the late Thomas J. Powers, one-time state banking commissioner, county coroner and collector of the port of Philadelphia, died en route to the Misericordia hospital today.

Two men and two women were arrested as police attempted to solve the mystery surrounding his death. A third man is being sought. The prisoners are: Samuel Kay, 29; his wife, Katherine, 27; Ella Connelly, 23, and Roger Loney, 31. The man being sought is John J. Cannon, who occupied an apartment in the building at the doorway of which Powers' body was found. Mr. and Mrs. Kay also occupied an apartment in the same building.

Police say Powers attended an all-night "wild party" which alternated between the Kay and Cannon apartments.

Police at first believed the shooting was the outgrowth of a bootleggers feud, but this was discounted when the identity of the victim was learned. It is now believed Powers may have been shot during an argument growing out of the party.

His father was one of the ablest aides of Matthew Stanley Quay, one-time czar of Pennsylvania Republican politics.

Hearing On Appeal Of Company To Abandon Rails Heard

BUSSES ALREADY BEING USED HERE

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Sept. 10.—Testifying that his company could not afford to meet the demands of the city of New Castle for improvements, David I. McCahill, president of the Pittsburgh, Harmony and New Castle Railway, today asked the public service commission for permission to abandon its lines there and install buses.

McCahill, thrown from his mount at the Pittsburgh Hunt club yesterday, testified under difficulties. He received severe lacerations in the fall.

Under the company's plans, commissioner Charles Young was told, Rail service would continue from Pittsburgh to East New Castle where passengers were to be transferred to buses.

McCahill also asked the commission to grant his company permission to transfer to the city certain tracts of land in addition to all rights and title to the company's rails within the corporation limits.

The question of improvements was broached when the railway company became involved in a series of altercations with members of the New Castle council. As a climax to the misunderstandings at the time the company was refused permission to operate its trolleys within the limits of the city. This question was later adjusted, McCahill said.

According to officials of the company, permission has already been granted for the operation of buses within the city, and the new service has been started.

State To Conduct Classes In Hospital

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 10.—The state health department has embarked on an educational feature at its Elizabethtown crippled children's hospital that is attracting the interest of educators throughout the commonwealth. Preparations are being made by the department to conduct classes of instruction for the patients at the institution.

Classes are expected to be started within the next few weeks. At the present time courses of study are being planned, supplies ordered and preparations being made to get the instruction under way.

There are about 90 patients at the hospital at present and it is expected that more than 70 of them will be given instruction after the school work starts. The pupils will cover the primary grades and also freshmen and sophomores in high school.

All subjects taught in the public schools will be included in the curriculum. The school will be the first of its kind to be established in the state. If the plan is successful other hospitals may establish similar schools for the juvenile patients.

The school term will be ten months long. Students at the Millersville Normal school are to be the instructors at the hospital school. A member of the hospital staff will be in charge of the teaching corps.

The student body of the school will be constantly changing. Many of the patients at the hospital are in the institution only for a few months while others will be there for much longer periods depending upon their physical condition. In order that the patients will not lose standing with the classes the health department determines to give them instruction while confined at the Elizabethtown crippled children's hospital.

Pupils for the first classes will include children from New Castle, Easton, Reading, Wilkes-Barre, Philadelphia, Franklin, Johnstown, Shamokin, Waynesboro, Chambersburg, Ephrata and Freeland.

Soviet Shoots Six Food Speculators

MOSCOW, Sept. 10.—The OGPU (Soviet secret police) announced tonight that six persons were shot today and others were sentenced to imprisonment for attempting to disrupt the food market by acquiring large quantities from government shops under false pretenses and reselling the food privately at high prices. The OGPU said this had broken up the ring.

There May be Poison in YOUR Bowels!

STEP out tomorrow morning with the fresh buoyancy and briskness that comes from a clean intestinal tract. Syrup Pepsin—a doctor's prescription for the bowels—will help you do this. This compound of fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other mild ingredients will clean you out thoroughly—without griping, sickening or discomfort.

Poisons absorbed into the system from souring waste in the bowels cause that dull, headachy, sluggish, tongue; foul the breath; sap energy, strength and nerve-force. A little of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will clear up trouble like that, gently, harmlessly, in a hurry. The great difference it will make in your feelings over night will convince you of its merit.

Dr. Caldwell studied bowel troubles for forty-seven years. This long experience enabled him to make his prescription just what men, women, old people and children need. Its natural, mild, thorough action and its pleasant taste commend it to everyone. That's why "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin," as it is called, is the largest selling laxative in drugstores everywhere.

FREEDOM GASOLINE AND MOTOR OILS

If carbon removing ever becomes a lost art most of the credit will have to go to the army of motorists who use Freedom Perfect Motor Oil.

All motor oils contain some carbon—but Freedom has only a trace of soft carbon that cannot leave a hard, scaly deposit. Moreover, Freedom Perfect performs better—lasts longer. It resists crank-case dilution, enables a motor to develop its full power, lubricates efficiently in extremes of temperature.

Try Freedom Perfect—once. From that time on it will be your choice for life. There's a Freedom station near you. Drive in!

Farm Suggestions By State Experts

Give Cows Vacation—Cows which are to freshen this fall should be dried off in plenty of time so that they will get a good rest. Keep them well fed and they will be good milkers all winter.

Kill Chicken Pests—If the pullets are infested with body lice and intestinal parasites, treat the birds before they start to lay.

Plant Spring Flowers—Plant the following spring-flowering bulbs this fall: glory-of-the-snow, crocus, snow-drop, squill, daffodil, jonquil, narcissus, and tulip. State College horticulturists say.

Apply for Forest Trees—This is a good time to get from your agricultural agent an application blank for the trees you will want for planting next spring. He can help you, too, in choosing the right kinds for your locations. Act quickly, as the supply of trees is being rapidly allotted to those who have placed their orders.

Small Packages Popular—Increased wicked old days before women got use of small packages in marketing the ballot and saved the world.

DROUGHT RESULT ON COUNTY FARMS SEEN BY BANKERS

Cloak of the First National at Ellwood City. Credit for the success of the trip goes to him as well as Mr. McCulloch both of whom worked together in planning the tour.

In the party were representatives from banks in Lawrence county, with a special guest from the Butler County National at Butler. Banks sending delegations were the First National Bank of Lawrence county, the Lawrence Savings and Trust company, the Peoples Savings and Trust company, the Union National and the Union Trust of New Castle; the First National, Peoples National and Citizens National of Ellwood City; the Bessemer State Bank, Bessemer; the First National of Wampum, and the First National of New Wilmington.

Cover 40 Miles

Not more than 40 miles were covered in Tuesday afternoon's jaunt, a short trip compared to the 130-mile tour of last year. Jumps from one farm to another were not so long, giving the sightseers an opportunity to inspect more closely the various things the different farms had to offer. From New Castle, the caravan of cars set out for the farm of R. C. Love at the upper end of Neshannock township, where sheep-raising is a specialty. The land today is still known as one of the farms the late George Greer operated.

A preliminary inspection of the grazing sheep preceded an explanatory talk given by William Simms, foreman of the place. The present stock includes 185 ewes and about 160 lambs much of which last year brought 8 pounds of wool on an average clip. Dogs, it was learned are one of the biggest problems to be contented with there.

To Huey Farm

From the Love farm the party backtracked a part of the way, and then struck another route to the 25-acre fruit orchard of Samuel Huey, along the Wilmington road just south of Walnut. Here Mr. Huey and W. C. Hileman, operator of the orchard greeted the bankers and conducted them about the place.

Indications are that only half a normal crop of apples will be harvested this year, while the peaches are certainly conspicuous by their absence. Mr. Hileman said the peach crop would not be good.

SECOND ADD BANKERS

The apple orchard is expected to yield not much more than 1,500 bushels this fall, compared to the 3,000 bushels picked last year and the 6,000 bushels produced the two years just preceding that. Early frosts were blamed in this case, although the drought also had a telling effect. Plums and grapes are coming along as usual this year, it was said.

Apples Sprayed

Leading varieties of apples are grown there, including Baldwins, spys, Jonathons, stemans, wine saps, bananas, Deacon Jones, the wealthy and York apples. Sprays have been applied six times so far last year, and to a great extent they have prevented further damage.

It was pointed out that no "thinning" will be required in order to help the crop this year. "Thinning" is where part of the apples on an over-abundant tree are picked to allow the tree to produce at least a normal crop. Where large yields occur the trees are crowded and the entire crops are often spoiled. The drought has taken care of this this year.

At the Huey farm is a storage house where 3,000 bushels of apples may be kept during the winter months.

Raise Turkeys

After the orchard visit the party resumed its journey, going directly to the poultry farm on F. F. Ferris to the east of New Wilmington. Three hundred acres are given over there largely to the raising of turkeys and chickens for table and breeding purposes. Shipments are made to New Castle, Akron, New Wilmington and other points, and a steady flow of orders keeps coming in all the time. Both Mr. and Mrs. Ferris operate the business.

Mrs. Ferris told the bankers that she expected to have 1,800 laying hens this winter, while 280 turkeys are also a part of the present stock.

See Jersey Cattle

The Jersey cattle farm of M. G. Moose, out towards Volant, and the J. B. Elder Holstein cattle farm, near Fayette, were the next stops of the bankers, and at each the prize-winning cattle of the owners were exhibited. Assisting Mr. Moose in the management of his farm is his son, Homer, who helped to show the visitors about the place.

From the Elder farm the next jump took the party to the potato fields of A. E. McCreary and Sons, back of Fayette. Here the farmers heard that while the drought has worked its hardships, the yield nevertheless will probably be 5,000 bushels. Twenty-three acres are planted in potatoes.

As to what the price of potatoes will be this fall, Mr. McCreary would not venture to say. That's something no one can tell just yet, he said. All of the McCreary potatoes are russets.

Dry Weather Effect

Speaking about the recent dry weather, Mr. McCreary said: "We would have had a crop double the yield were getting if it hadn't been for it. The price will probably be higher because of it though."

For the modern methods of spraying, Mr. McCreary and his two sons, Arthur and King, both of whom assist him with the work, had nothing but praise. If it had not been for the 14 spray applications the crops may have been damaged by the blight, they said.

The McCreary farm has been in the hands of the McCreary family since 1851, and probably ranks as one of the best potato farms around. Only a few years ago one acre yielded 512 bushels, with several others exceeding the 400-bushel mark.

A stop had previously been scheduled for the farm operated by E. D. Wagner and Sons, but owing to a last-minute change the bankers didn't go there. Instead they motored to the Liberty Grange hall on the Harlanburg road, where a chicken dinner awaited them. Ladies of the grange were in charge of the serving.

At Grange Hall

With the dinner over, a short business meeting of the bankers ensued. It marked the regular September meeting. The regular order of business was transacted with I. T. Getty, New Wilmington, the president, presiding.

Careful plans had previously been made for the evening at the grange, and so everything clicked along in fine order. The presentation of association medals to six North Beaver township boys for their prize-winning exhibits in dairy and swine judging at the New Castle Fair last month was one of the features.

The sextet along with James Beatty father of one of the boys were special guests during the evening. Included were William Forsythe, winner of first prize in swine judging; William Brittain, winner of first place in the dairy judging; Charles Forsythe, second place winner in the swine section; Mate Beatty, second place winner in the dairy section; Frank Hocanson, third place winner in the dairy section and Arthur Beatty, winner of the third place medal in the swine section. President Getty made the awards.

All of the boys are active members of the Big Beaver Club visited by the bankers when they toured North Beaver township last year. They are residents of New Galilee.

Following the presentation, President Getty turned over the meeting to Chairman Cloak, who presided during the remainder of the evening. He introduced Mr. McCulloch farm agent and he in turn introduced the speaker, H. G. Niesley, agricultural expert from State College.

Speaks on Farm Problems

Speaking on "The Farm Problem" Mr. Niesley gave a comprehensive summary of the troubles facing the farmer today. His address too was an optimistic one and fittingly brought to a close the educational tour. Three possible solutions were offered by Mr. Niesley, each being developed clearly enough for the group of laymen.

First, efficient production was offered as one remedy with the merchandising of farm products on a standard quality and quantity basis as a second possible means of relief. Thirdly, a higher standard of rural life is bound to help the farmer Mr. Niesley said.

As a closing act, the association extended to the ladies of the grange its thanks for the excellent dinner, and to Mr. McCulloch its appreciation for his splendid co-operation in connection with the tour.

Bankers In Party

Bank officials and directors from Lawrence county and outside cities who participated in the annual tour were as follows:

John D. Kennedy, New Castle; R. C. Wiggins, Butler; Carl Davidson, Ellwood City; D. C. Hancher, Ellwood City; Charles Weitz, Bessemer; A. H. Fullerton, Bessemer; R. J. Totten, Volant; Fred C. Pyle, New Castle; Walter S. Reynolds, New Castle; E. B. Hawkins, New Castle; F. M. Davis, Wampum; P. W. Griffin, Bessemer; C. P. Cloak, Ellwood City; Joel S. McKee, New Castle; John J. Maher, New Castle; Geo. A. Carpenter, New Castle; W. M. McLaughery, New Wilmington.

H. Boots, Ellwood City; H. C. Jones, Ellwood City; J. B. Johnston, New Wilmington; A. G. Kyle, Volant and H. T. Getty, New Wilmington.

Representatives of the Lawrence county extension office and other special guests included H. G. Niesley, assistant director of agricultural extension work in Pennsylvania, State College; H. R. McCulloch, county farm agent who co-operated with the bankers in arranging the tour; J. W. Bronson, president of the Lawrence County Agricultural Extension association; Attorney W. W. Braham, State Senator George T. Weingartner and Bruce Ewing reported for The News.

Whatever it is, the Carnegie auditorium is ablaze with color and the effect as one steps through the door is breath taking.

Huge dahlias, aristocrats of their line colored by a lavish hand, austere in their frigid beauty, standing out from their fellows in a way that makes you think of silk hats and lognettes. Woolly asters, and the odd shaped and colored cosscomb, blazing marigolds and more sedate zinnias, snap dragon, calendulas, a few late roses and delphinium, phlox and verbena, cosmos and petunia, all of them vying with each other for a place in the eye of the judges. And to them all add the gladioli, with their long stately spikes and the multicolored hues of their blossoms.

A Real Success

Successful? Of course the flower show is successful, surprisingly so for after all the drought was a severe handicap, but in the case of the flower growers a handicap that spurred them on to large things.

Just what the feature of the show is, belongs to you to decide. The scrivener who is responsible for this article believes that the outstanding feature of the entire display is the school exhibit. There are larger blooms in the show than the youngsters have, but this exhibit is more than just a group of flowers, it is a labor of love that has occupied their time in the summer months and if you have just a dime's worth of imagination you can look ahead and see what the display means to them and to their city. Hence the unofficial designation of the school exhibit as the feature of the show.

Over in the corner taken by St. Mary's school there is a mass of marigolds that hits you smack dab in the eye. Lovely things that color the corner and scent the air, a display that is a beauty. McGill school and Oak street are there and several of the other schools and if you go down to the show, and of course you will, don't miss the school exhibit.

Club Exhibit

Then the club exhibit. The Wilmodaus with their cosmos, the Art club with their petunias, the Reading circle of '31 with their verbenas, the Council of Jewish Women and the Circle of '31 with their calendulas, the Sorosis with their asters, the Circle of '06 with their snapdragons and the College club with their larkspur. All of them combined make a mass of loveliness and in this group you can pick out your own winner and be sure you are wrong.

Down in one corner is a woodland scene with a tailor made forest and birds of all kinds in the branches. On the stage is an Egyptian garden, the work of the Carnegie Steel gardener, in front of it is a group of miniature gardens that show originality and artistry. Farther over you find the breakfast sets with young matrons fussing about them in last touches, a group of lunch table layouts gleaming with their silver and linen and glass and down the center aisle, bird baths and urns and gazing globes, and evergreens.

Today and Tomorrow

You really mustn't miss the flower show this year. It is one of those things you can't afford to miss, one of those things that feed the soul and delight the eye and make you glad that there are such people as the women of the Garden club to sponsor this show.

The judges arrived this morning and by this afternoon will have the awards made. They are James Murphy, of Oak Lodge, Sewickley, Pa., Herman Rapp of the Watson Orphanage, H. T. Clark of the Laughlin estate of Sewickley, and Mrs. Fred Earnshaw, Mrs. Louis Heller, Jr., Mrs. William Watson, and Mrs. E. F. Lumbard of Youngstown, O.

Mrs. David Ritchie, president of the Garden club can well feel satisfied with the show. She and her fellow members are to be congratulated upon its success and in the success they are sharing their wish to extend their heartfelt appreciation to the Carnegie Steel company, without whose generosity in providing the auditorium the show would have been impossible. The flower show will close Thursday evening.

Graf Zeppelin Is Shot At By Guards On Soviet Frontier

Guard Officers Reprimanded By Soviet Government For Firing On Zeppelin

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Soviet frontier guards near Dvinsk fired 16 shots at the German Graf Zeppelin, carrying a full crew and 20 passengers on a courtesy visit to Moscow, when the airship crossed the Soviet border, according to an exchange telegraph message from Riga.

Inasmuch as Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf, made no comment on the incident when he reached Moscow today, it was believed that all the shots went wild.

The Soviet authorities took the matter up, however, and issued a reprimand to the section chief of the guards concerned. This officer replied that the guards had instructions to fire on all foreign aircraft crossing the frontiers.

HAPPENINGS IN WORLD OF SPORT

Several High Gridders Now On Casualty List

One Of First String Backfield Men May Be Ineligible To Play

High School Squad Is Working Out Behind Closed Doors At Field

New Castle High school 1930 football candidates went through a rather light workout at Taggart Field on Tuesday. Coach Phil Bridenbaugh for the past three days has sent the gridders through hard workouts and yesterday decided to let the boys off easy.

A long signal drill was the chief factor in the workout. First came calisthenics and then the signal drill. As the days roll along the candidates appear to be getting faster. Several of the boys are on the casualty list. Nick Uram, James Sotus, Coy Hubbard, Charles Schep, and Dick Thomas are the gridders who are not in the peak at the present.

The gridders this season are training behind closed doors. Too many fans crowded Taggart Field daily, disturbing the gridders. Faculty Manager Gardner decided that the best way to stop this was to close the doors. Many spectators got views of the gridders in action through the fences yesterday.

With over a week still left before the opening game with Coraopolis High on September 19, Coach Phil Bridenbaugh is not yet sure who his first eleven will be. There is a possibility that one of the first string candidates may be ineligible. It will be a tough proposition to replace him in the backfield, if he is ineligible.

Geneva To Have Speedy Backfield

Coach Harpster Faced With Problem Of Developing Good Line

BEAVER FALLS, Sept. 10.—Geneva is buzzing with football talk and it is quite probable that Coach Harpster will have a formidable backfield, according to those who have watched Captain Johnny Knapic and Earl Ewing show their skill to second team lineups. The veteran Joe Frece looms as the third back with Tim Tenerario, Art Graham fighting to call signals.

There are enough cap-able substitute candidates to keep every man on his toes in order to hold a job in an alert shifty quartet of ball carriers. Harpster wants speed and plays fixed around Knapic will demand this attribute.

The line as yet is a problem. Don Lovewell, former Carnegie Tech star is working overtime to develop a forward wall that will compare with the Geneva line of old. Slim Ransom's 6 feet, 5 inches of height could star of any team in the country. He is a good center.

Tom Stauffer and George Johnson look like fixtures at guard and tackle, respectively. Numerous other candidates are fighting for positions.

The first to enter the hospital list was Red Davis, the versatile end. He will probably be laid up until Bucanell is met. He has a hurt knee.

Geneva will open the season with St. Vincents in Beaver Falls, September 19th.

Romeo Pacelli Is Here From Gotham

Romeo Pacelli, local featherweight boxer, who has been campaigning in Detroit and New York for the past few months has returned to New Castle and may try to land some choice bouts in Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio. Pacelli fought several good battles at the Jolly bowl and is one of the best boys produced here in some time. With proper handling Romeo ought to get somewhere in the fistie realm.

Union High Grid Team Is Slowly Reaching Shape

Coach Boyd Sends Union High Gridders Through First Scrimmage Test

THREE DATES ON SCHEDULE OPEN

The first real test of the season for the Union high school football team will come late this afternoon when Coach David Morgan Boyd will send his charges through a stiff scrimmage session. So far Boyd has spent his time in perfecting the little fundamentals of the game, along with a lot of attention to his line.

Ten veterans compose the team this year with only one vacancy to be filled. The outlook for Union this year is excellent. Five letter-men are in the backfield and five on the line, and this is not to be sneezed at.

Coach Boyd said today that the makeup of his first team was not known yet. There are several scrubs who are making the varsity boys hustle to hold their positions. After several scrimmages it is expected that Coach Boyd will have a better line on his men and will probably groom a varsity team next week. The season opens on September 19.

Three Open Dates. Through the act of several schools in the county discontinuing football, the Union high schedule has been depleted, and at the present time there are three open dates, but games are pending with first class schools.

It is an unfortunate circumstance that a school which filled its grid schedule last spring, finds itself forced to seek games this late in the year, but an effort is being made to get the schedule filled up. The opening game of the year will find Coach Boyd with a great little team, is the indication, and they will have to be good to take the measure of the strong Zelenople team.

Following is the Union high schedule for this fall:
Sept. 19—Zelenople at Zelenople
Sept. 26—Pending
Oct. 4—Scienceville high at Scienceville
Oct. 11—Mercer high at Mercer
Oct. 18—Pending
Oct. 24—New Wilmington high at Union
Nov. 1—Pending
Nov. 7—Shenango high at Shenango
Nov. 14—Bessemer high at Bessemer
Nov. 22—Grove City high at Grove City.

There will be a meeting of the Lawrence County Coon Hunters, at Y. M. C. A. 8 o'clock Thursday evening.

Titans Have Best-Balanced Grid Squad Of Last Decade

Coach Beede's Second Team Holds First Scrimmage Sessions

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 10.—Barring permanent injuries, Westminster College should have the best balanced football squad this fall that the U. P. school has boasted in a decade.

For the first time since he took over the grid reins at Westminster five years ago, Coach "Dike" Beede has a good second team. In the scrimmage sessions so far the "B" team has held the "A" team to short gains. The second-team line is particularly strong, so much so that Beede has not decided whether some of the guards and tackles on the second team should be promoted to first team.

Backfield material is more plentiful than it was last year. Among the ball-toters of ability are Michaels, Haldy, Perrin, Peter, Leech, Banks, Harper, Krueger, Bloker, Ketterer, Hamas, Frack, Camm, and Hartnett.

Some time is taken by Beede at the start of each afternoon's drill to develop punters and passers. Harper, Michaels, Haldy, and Ketterer have shown up well in passing, while Michaels and Krueger look the best in punting. In all probability, Beede will have two or three good punters on the first team if combinations he has been using in scrimmage are ever started in games.

There are plenty of heavy linemen for the tackle and guard posts, but Beede has been using the lighter, fast-charging type of linemen so far in scrimmage sessions. The lack of ends last year was one of the most serious problems Beede had to face, finally causing him to develop backs and guards into ends. This year, however, there are five or six good ends available.

As the Titans go into the second week of training, prospects for a good team are bright. There are, however, few, if any, willing to claim that the Titans will have a championship team. But those who have watched the squad working out each day expect things of the Beede machine this fall.

The schedule which Westminster will play is far from easy. Washington and Jefferson and Grove City will have teams on a par with any of the colleges in the district, and both are played away from home. Geneva, with Howard Harpster as mentor and a raft of new material, will bear watching. Bethany, Juniata, Edinboro, Slippery Rock, Thiel, and Allegheny, the other schools on the schedule, will all be good. As a result, there will be nine weeks of intensive work for the Titans once the season starts on September 27, and there will be no "breathers."

Municipal Team Meets Field Club Team On Friday

Interesting Golf Contest Is Scheduled For Field Club Course

Long anticipated contest between teams representing the Municipal Golf Course and the New Castle Field club will be an event of Friday afternoon.

The best golfers of the two places have been selected to participate in the event and there will be ten men on each team.

Play will start at 2:10 p. m. The players will contest in groups of four or foursomes. A new foursome will start in play every five minutes until all the members of each team are in play.

The players have been paired with the idea of putting players in competition with an opponent that is about equal in playing ability. Because of improvements being made on No. 5 hole, play will be made on a temporary hole.

Following the contest, dinner will be served at the club house at 6:30 o'clock.

The players of the respective teams, the lineup showing each man's personal opponent follows:

Municipal Course	Field Club
Molesworth	Trainor
Nelson	William Long
Gilliland	Nunn
West	Preston
Prioletti	George Long
Twaddle	Cooper
Honkonen	Waddington
Hughes	Matthews
Walsh	C. Ed Smith
Clark	Perry

team last year and counted on as one of the outstanding fullback candidates has reported, leaving only two or three men not accounted for. Of the 57 originally ordered to report for the training season, only two have definitely responded that they will not return to college.

Tommy Evans, husky halfback regular, who was injured at the end of last season reported in good condition and may be able to fill his old position. Although it will be several weeks before Evans' true condition can be determined, the fact that he has been able to take full part in the practices to date has been particularly cheering.

Johnny Zorella, varsity guard, will not be able to join his mates for some time on account of enrolling for a special two-weeks' short course in engineering. He probably will be ready to resume his place by the third week of the training season.

Grove City Squad Cut Down To 36

Scrimmage Work Is Started At Grove City College Gridiron

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Sept. 10.—Working with the 36 survivors of the first cut in the squad, Coach Berry opened the second week of training camp at Grove City college yesterday with two long drills. The forenoon was given to signal work, punting and passing. The afternoon was featured by strenuous scrimmage.

Every man on the squad was given the chance to show his punting prowess, as Berry sought a capable booter. At the end of the drill, Berry was still unsatisfied, although Pusch, Kammer and Daugherty got off some long kicks. The passing drill developed no new stars, although Alexander handled the oval creditably.

Saturday's scrimmage was a mild session to the grueling work handed out yesterday afternoon. Power plays were ordered as Berry looked at the defensive possibilities of his tackles and centers. George Foti of Jamestown, N. Y. shifted from guard to tackle, showed up well and he may get the call if his work continues to improve. Brown, a veteran tackle, was on the other side of the line, and this pair was stopping the "A" team backs. Smith of Nanticoke, a new man, played well defensively, altho Carnahan and Olexa were in the position for the offensive team.

Both Thomas and Pusch, who alternated at quarter last year, were used with the "A" team, the former at half and Pusch calling signals. Captain Kammer was at the other half, and Shupe and Munson worked at fullback. Masso, a quarterback from Redstone township, H. S. reported in camp Sunday and was used on the defensive team yesterday, making a number of good tackles.

Frequent scrimmages are scheduled this week as Coach Berry wants to give each candidate careful attention before making the final cut on Saturday evening.

GARBAGE HEAVY

Garbage is running heavy, according to Howard Phillips who reports that all the trucks in the department are kept busy. One truck is devoted exclusively to the collection of tin cans.

Field Club Course Is Being Improved

Two Holes Are To Be Made Over In The Next Few Weeks

As a result of a successful season at the New Castle Field club this year, some improvements to the course, which have been considered necessary for some time, are now underway.

The first of the improvements is the placing of No. 5 hole in upstate condition. It is being raised and new traps are being put in place. The surroundings of the hole are being banked so as to make a pitched shot possible.

When the improvements on this hole have been completed, it is planned to make similar extensive improvements to the No. 2 hole. With these improvements completed, the course will be in excellent condition.

The silent drama had advantages. It didn't suffer for lack of a silent audience.

National League Pennant Race Is Interesting One

Brooklyn Defeats Cubs As Giants Humble Cards And Race Tightens Up

GROVE CAPTURES ANOTHER GAME

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—This Floyd Caves Herman has been criticized quite a lot. They said he wasn't a natural hitter, that his batting stance was bad and that he swung at the ball in a nonsectarian, unorthodox fashion. Yet on the shoulders of this young Californian there rested today most of the glory for the Brooklyn Robins humbling the league leading Cubs 3 to 0 and going into a virtual tie with the Cards for the runner-up berth. Only three games now separate the four contenders for the bunting.

To be sure Babe Phelps hurled a masterpiece, allowing the powerful Bruins only five hits, but it was Babe Herman's dramatic homer in the eighth with one man on that frigidified it and sent the pennant-conscious Cubs home to roost with big and little shivers playing tag on their spinal columns. League or Ray Moss may try to duplicate Phelps' great feat today with Dazy Vance for the climatic finale.

Full Smart Play.
Acting Manager Dave Bancroft snatched the game for the Giants over St. Louis, 2 to 1 either by a stroke of strategy or a piece of luck. He sent Hogan to bat for Critz in the seventh with Jackson on third and Roettger on second. Hogan rapped a grounder to Gelbert who fielded slowly and Jackson scored, while Roettger went to third and scored on the throwout that retired Leach. And so today nobody mentioned Hogan or Bancroft, and said Clarence Mitchell won a hurling duel from Burleigh Grimes.

Jim Moore, a rookie from Dallas, socked a homer with one on and batted it, 3 to 1, for the A's over Detroit. Grove was the winning pitcher. Babe Ruth, who led the Yanks won 8 to 6 from Cleveland largely by virtue of Combs' hitting. Babe got two hits but nothing approaching a four-sacker.

A hit rampage in the welth inning triumphed 8 to 4 for Washington over the Browns. Hayes starred at bat. Lefty O'Doul, in the role of pinch-hitter, homered with two on in the sixth and tied the score and thus encouraged the Phils went ahead and finally lowered away the Reds 8 to 6. Pat Caraway could be coaxed out of only five hits by Boston so the White Sox wrapped it up, 10 to 1. The Braves and Pirates idled it.

Two Local Auto Racers In Event

Hamilton And Thelma To Compete In 100 Mile Auto Grind

New Castle will have two speedsters in the auto races which they start Saturday afternoon at the New Castle fair ground track. They are C. O. L. Hamilton and W. F. Thelma. The latter owns the racing creation that will be toiled by Hamilton and he will act as relief driver.

They have been speeding this week on the track, taking opportunity of a postponement to acquaint themselves with the twists and turns in the track. They hope this knowledge will come in handy when they get the flag when approximately 40 other drivers will roar their cars away.

They'll have to display a lot of skill and nerve to beat Bill Chittum, current track champ. Shorty Wolf, Gene Morgan, Jack Polk, Bill Schupp, Kack Case, Joe Baker, Ken Dunda, Ernie Jones, Louie Guiley, Jack Owens and a lot of other noted drivers.

Instead of the two postponements having taken the edge from the race it appears as though a bigger crowd than gathered on the two previous scheduled days will be present. A thousand fans collected at the track Labor Day and this mark may be beaten when 3 o'clock Saturday arrives.

His skull was fractured and an arm broken. Banyak was a veteran of the World War and the funeral service will be held Thursday afternoon in charge of the Legion post.

The Decision
 The judges held with the fire chief. The judges reasoned thus: A house on fire or one in the immediate vicinity which would serve to communicate the fire becomes a nuisance which it is lawful to abate. NEW YORK STOCKS
Market Prices Lower
In Today's Trading

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—There was not sufficient momentum in the stock market to force prices of the speculative favorites to higher levels in the early trading today. After moving around in a narrow range for the better part of the first hour, the bulk of the active industrial shares settled down to a slightly lower level, with trading appreciably slowing up in the process.

The Dow Jones Steel survey placed the current production at 56 per cent of capacity, down 1 1/2 per cent from last week. The U. S. Steel Corporation, according to the same authority, is working at 63 per cent of capacity, against 65 per cent last week. Industrial news was on the whole unchanged and call money was in good supply at 2 1/2 per cent.

New advances of 1 to 2 1/2 points were recorded for a handful of the favorites, including consolidated Gas, Vanadium, American Can and Woolworth. United States Steel sold with a narrow range around 172 1/4, and General Electric at 75, up 1/2. The Automobile stocks lost a good part of yesterday's advance. International Nickel, at the end of the Metals stocks, sold at the best price on the move, while Lehigh and Radio Keith led the rally in the Amusements, the latter reaching a new high on the move at 37 1/2.

The commodity markets were steady, with Cotton up 10 points and Wheat fractionally higher.

ROAMING

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

Every now and then, a fellow who makes a living by banging around looking at things, runs into something that leaves him goggle-eyed with awe. Occasionally he does get into places where something of unusual value or importance can be seen, and when he does he is just as likely to forget the flight of time, the day of the month and whether or not he paid his telephone bill.

It may be the explorer's spirit, the phantasmic wraith of promise that keeps urging him on, that keeps a fellow working at it, but occasionally he runs into something that repays a lot of footless visits. Pay dirt if you get what I mean, oil sand, or a twelve foot vein. Metaphor it any way you like, but when he does bang against something like it, it leaves him as nearly breathless as he can afford to be.

Last night was one of those nights. For several hours, no matter how many, I had the unusual privilege of sitting with the old masters, rubbing shoulders with them if you please, looking at what they wrote, and marveling at their work. Not in the flesh and blood of course, but through the medium of C. B. Randall's library on Hazlet Avenue.

Mr. Randall is a collector of rare manuscripts, a publisher, a book broker, he is the "House of Randall." Through his hands pass the treasures of the ancients, the manuscripts that were penned centuries ago, books that represent fortunes. But not all of them does he allow to get away. Now and then he keeps some odd or unusual volume and the result is a library that holds you in its grip, dars you to leave, and keeps you long after you expected to be away.

The primary object of the visit was to see two original letters of Martin Luther, written back in 1543 to a friend of his. As the covers of the holder opened and the priceless manuscript came to view, one felt reverent, felt like standing up for there before him were two letters whose value could not be measured in money.

In his mind's eye one could see Luther sitting on an oak bench, writing the letters with a quill pen, and beside him on his table, a snub of a candle throwing an eery light over the page. It was like looking beyond the grave, rolling back the years, and communing with a man whose bones have mingled with the dust for nearly 400 years.

But as priceless as was this collection, there were others, each of them bringing reverential exclamations, each of them work of some old master.

There are the copies of Poe's "The Raven," and Taylor's "The Rime of the Ancient Mariner," gorgeously bound in hand tooled French Levant, and illustrated with wood cuts by Gustav Dore, whose work is probably the finest of its kind the world has ever seen. Full page illustrations of the old master, adding new interest to the poems you know, giving them new life and color.

Then the collection of Roosevelt letters to Col. Charles Bryan (a publisher) dating back to 1886. The early one are entirely in long hand in a scrawl that bespeaks the energy of the man who wrote them. As you read on and on, one could almost feel the presence of Teddy, for his private letters bristled with phrases that are so typically Rooseveltian.

I had always supposed that some of that virility of expression was first found when T. R. was in the White House. On the contrary his letters written from Oyster Bay in 1888 are as full of punch as are his letters from the White House in 1901.

Then a page of a Gutenberg Bible. Here was a piece of the first piece of printing ever done by movable type. Here was history, the beginning of a new era, the opening of the day that gave the people printed works and thus started education. Here was the forerunner of the modern newspaper, the printing press, and all the thousands of tons of printed matter that have followed. Here was a piece of work that should be framed in gold and guarded as a king is guarded.

Up on the mantelpiece the clock kept running on, running several engagements that had been made, and below it we sat, entranced, poring over volumes that a king might well envy. What a night. What a thrill. It was the kind of evening that one puts away in the files of memory, tagged with a bright red marker, to be pulled out at leisure and enjoyed over and over again.

Some evening I'm going back again, for the few fleet hours we spent there gave me but a peek into the treasure vault, just a taste of the wine of enjoyment that will tingle for a long time.

After that experience it is rather difficult to get down to mundane things. Something like ordering ham and beans in a quick lunch after a banquet prepared by a famous chef.

Anyway you should remember what day this is. The Flower Show gets under way in the auditorium and you certainly shouldn't miss it.

The suggestion that old Troop F should get together for a banquet is taking hold. Met R. Harold Blewett yesterday and he's for it. When they broke up the cavalry Blewett went into the Supply Company of the 107th Field Artillery and over in France was a motor cycle dispatch rider. From a mule skinner to a gasoline night reader so to speak.

As he talked of the old Troop the whereabouts of some of the members became known. Johnny Bruno and Joe Bauldauf are back in the army, some of the boys are in the west, some in the east, but a lot of them are here. One of them in fact is not far from where this is being written, being the foreman of the News composing room, Clarence R. Davis. Before he was married, more commonly known as "Red."

Have no explanation of that peculiar light in the western sky yet. Wonder what has happened to S. S. Myers?

Average Of Two Or Three Hawks A Day Killed At Game Farm

These innocent looking poles, at the Jordan State Game Farm near Harlansburg, that look to the hawk like such charming perches are in reality deadly traps.

It is on those harmless appearing contraptions that scores of hearty hawks have landed—never to rise again. An average of 2 or 3 hawks every day are trapped at the Game Farm, according to the official in charge, H. J. Sines.

There are about 100 of the traps standing at different distances part, over the 325 acres of the farm. They have proven of no end of value in helping prevent the destruction of the young pheasants, that are being raised on the farm. Hawks are worst for the pheasants with which Mr. Sines has to contend.

If the hawk had much suspicion in his nature he would realize that it was hardly probable that ring side seats would be furnished on the State Game Farm, where he could sit and await his leisure in gobbling up the juicy morsels of baby pheasanthood.

But he doesn't and so goes unsuspecting to his doom. He makes a perfect three point landing on the "perch" and presto! clamps of steel spring from their concealment at the side of the perch and the hawk sports bracelets. He is soon disposed of by one of the Farm officials.

The trap is set to spring when the weight of a hawk rest upon the cross bar of steel at the top of the pole, and it will spring only when there is that much weight resting upon it. If a song bird should light on the trap nothing would happen. But woe to the hawk!

ial service was held to the honor and memory of the ministers and the minister's wives who passed away during the conference year.

The Rev. M. I. Harding of Mount Jewitt, Pa., presided and the memorial address was delivered by the Rev. C. J. Zetler of Prewsburg, N. Y., who eulogized the departed in glowing terms, telling of their achievements, aims and purposes while on earth.

The opening day was taken up with reports of committees, the sacrament of the Lord's supper, roll call and organization of the Conference.
